Army Defends 'Operation Smack' As Justified And Soundly Planned

Legislators Agree Attack Necessary

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 31 (AP)—Eighth Army headquarters today defended "'Operation Smack" as fully justified, well planned but imperfectly executed—striking back at a U. S. congressman's criticism that it was a throwback to Roman gladiator shows.

Sunday's 150-man raid on the Western Front, witnessed by field commanders and newsmen, "was in no way designed as a demonstration for spectator benefit," said a three-page statement from headquarters of the Eighth's retiring commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet.

Necessary, Legislators Agree

In Washington, the chairmen of the Senate and House Armed Services Committee agreed after reading secret Army reports that the operation "was necessary for tactical reasons."

"It was a soundly conceived and carefully planned combat operation differing from many similar actions in the bitter Korean conflict only by its lack of complete success," the Eighth Army statement said.

"To describe it as anything else is grossly unfair to every man who has fought, suffered or died in the many battles, large and small, which have stopped Communist aggression in Korea."

Headquarters said three U. S. 7th Division men were killed and 61 wounded while attacking an "enemy installation which threatened our forces."

13 To 38 Reds Killed

But, despite the fact "certain things went wrong" the attackers succeeded in destroying Chinese Red bunkers, killing from 13 to 38 Reds and probably wounding "several times the number killed in action."

War correspondents had been carefully briefed and handed detailed timetables bound in cardboard covers with the Division's insignia pasted on the front prior to the air - artillery - tank - infantry assault on a feature known as Spud Hill on T-Bone Hill.

Together with ground and Air Force generals, they watched the attack proceed on schedule until the infantrymen neared the Communist bunkers and were caught in a vicious crossfire of machine guns.

Kyes Confirmed For No. 2 Post In Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Roger M. Kyes, former vice president of General Motors, won Senate confirmation today as deputy secretary of defense.

The Senate also confirmed President Eisenhower's choices for five other top jobs in the new Republican administration.

Warren Olney III of California was approved as assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's Criminal Division and H. Brian Holland of Massachusetts was also approved as an assistant attorney general.

Mrs. Lord Is Confirmed

Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York won confirmation as U. S. representative on the Human Rights Commission of the United Nations. She succeeds Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Two senior legal appointments were okayed as well — Herman Phleger of California to be the State Department's legal adviser and Stephen F. Dunn of Michigan to be general counsel of the Commerce Department.

All confirmations were by voice vote.

The Senate deferred action on the nomination of Winthrop W. Aldrich, New York banker, to be ambassador to Great Britain after Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) said he would like to have a statement from the Foreign Relations Committee on Aldrich. The nomination will come up again Monday.

Kyes To Sell GM Stock

In qualifying for the No. 2 job in the Defense Department, Kyes agreed to sell a large bloc of General Motors stock. General Motors is the nation's biggest defense contractor, and senators made it clear that they would not approve Kyes while he retained any interest in the corporation.

The same requirement was made of Charles E. Wilson before he was confirmed as secretary of defense. Wilson, former president of General Motors, agreed to give up a 2½ million dollar stake in the firm.

But even though Wilson and Kyes agreed to dispose of their interests, Morse told the Senate today, they will be "unable to divest themselves of a great affinity for General Motors."

Sabre Jets Down MIG And Bomber

SEOUL, (Saturday) Jan. 31 (AP)—Sabre jets Friday knocked down one MIG and a lumbering, Russian-made light bomber — a rare prize in the Korean War — the Fifth Air Force reported.

Ground action dwindled as the mercury plummeted to the lowest point of the winter, 16 below on the Western Front, but the Air Force was busy as usual.

Thunderjet fighter-bombers smashed a Communist coal mine and transformer station southeast of Sariwon above the Western Front. Pilots said they destroyed six buildings, damaged three and blew up large stores of explosives.

Other fighter-bombers took on a troop concentration in the same general area and destroyed 13 buildings, driving Red soldiers out in the bitter cold.

The Russian bomber, a twin-engine TU-2 propeller plane, was caught by the swift Sabres off the west coast near Chinnampo, the port city for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Want Toy Soldiers Back

HERSBRUCK, Germany, Jan. 30. (AP)—The town fathers of Hersbruck announced today they have opened negotiations with the U. S. State Department for the return of 50,000 toy soldiers seized by American troops shortly after the war.

The collection included 1,500 German imperial regimental standards and was one of the main attractions of this small Bavarian community.

Truman Offered $375,000 Contract

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — The newly-formed Theater Restaurant Owners Association of America today revealed it has offered its executive directorship to former President Truman with a five-year $375,000 contract.

The former President would have an expense account, in addition to the $75,000 yearly salary, according to Lou Walters, president of the group.

Walters, who owns the Latin Quarter on Broadway, said the offer was wired to Truman yesterday at the close of TROA's two-day organization meeting here.

He said he had not received any reply from Truman.

Walters said TROA is composed of existing local restaurant and night club owners' organizations in about 40 cities in the United States and Canada.

Soviet Protest Fails

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Soviet minister to Copenhagen tried without success today to force cancellation of a Danish state radio broadcast which he assailed as an insult of Russia.

Called "The First Postwar Years," the program is a dramatization of international events which led up to the present East-West conflict. Among its characters is Stalin, portrayed by a leading Danish actor.

McCarthy Says Probes Uncover "Gouging" Cases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) —Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) told the Senate today his special investigations subcommittee is uncovering "alarming and disgraceful" practices in the foreign aid program and in buying for the defense stockpile.

He made his charge as the Senate granted more than $800,000 to its investigating committees, ignoring protests by Sen. Ellender (D-La) that Congress was going wild on the subject of probes.

McCarthy's group got $200,000 to finance its inquiries during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Reds In Army Probe Due

The Senate voted 73 to 0 to give $150,000 to the internal security subcommittee headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind). It also authorized the subcommitte to use $69,000 in funds carried over from the last session of congress.

Jenner announced that one of his new inquiries will concern itself with "communism in the Army." He did not elaborate.

Appealing to the Senate for every cent of the $200,000 he had requested, McCarthy said his investigators are working now on cases involving "a very, very alarming and disgraceful situation at the Mutual Security Agency." MSA administers the foreign aid program.

McCarthy Cites One Case

McCarthy reported similar conditions are being found in buying for the defense stockpile.

Only today, he went on, his investigators dug up the case of a government purchasing agent who negotiated "a cost-plus contract with a European corporation" for defense materials at prices 150 per cent above the going price in New York.

Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho), a member of McCarthy's subcommittee, told the Senate "there may be some shocking disclosures" from the stockpile probe.

White House Parley On Controls Set Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) and Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) have been invited to a White House parley tomorrow morning to discuss price and wage controls and other economic issues.

They are chairmen of congressional banking committees which handle controls legislation and other monetary matters.

White House Skips Report Whisky Served To Envoys

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Evening Star said today foreign ambassadors were "surprised and delighted" Tuesday afternoon by being served whisky highballs and old fashioneds at a White House reception.

Asked about this, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty refused to go beyond a statement saying that it has been the custom to "serve liquid refreshments" to diplomatic chiefs making their first formal call on the new President.

Star Writer Betty Beale wrote in her society page column that apparently none of the ambassadors who came to call on Tuesday could remember getting such drinks at an afternoon White House party "in all their years in Washington."

"Why it has long been the custom to serve fruit punch with a strong bourbon base instead of bourbon with plain or soda water added, one can guess.

"No doubt it stems from the readiness of certain articulate groups to point the finger of criticism at whisky drinking whereas liquor in punch is harder to put the finger on."

Dean Declares Russians Have Atom Weapons

AEC Chief Says 3 Bombs Exploded

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said today "there is no doubt" the Russians have "a supply of atomic weapons."

Dean issued a brief statement in response, he said, to inquiries from reporters.

There have been many of these inquiries since former President Truman expressed doubt last Monday that the Russians have a workable atomic bomb.

Dean's statement said:

"The following facts, among those available to the U. S. government, can be released on this point:

"(A) The USSR has produced fissionable materials in quantity.

"(B) With fissionable materials in hand, it is not a difficult technical job to make workable atomic weapons.

"(C) The USSR has exploded three atomic bombs—one in the late summer of 1949, two in the fall of 1951.

"(D) On the basis of the above facts, and other scientific and technical evidence, there is no doubt of the existence of a supply of atomic weapons in the USSR."

Truman said in Kansas City on Jan. 27 that there was some doubt in his mind that the Russians had developed a workable atomic bomb.

Three members of the Senate-House Atomic Committee had called Truman's remark "highly unfortunate."

Rep. Durham (D-NC) retiring chairman of the Atomic Committee, Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) former chairman, and Rep. Cole (R-NY) said the Truman statements contradicted "indisputable evidence not only available today but available in 1949."

Dock Union Boss Admits Mobsters Ran Some Locals

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Joseph P. Ryan, union boss of the New York waterfront, admitted today Murder, Inc., mobsters once took over three of his dock locals. He said he was powerless to oust them.

Nevertheless, the aging president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association closed out a State Crime Commission hearing by charging that waterfront crime "is greatly exaggerated."

He later admitted it is "possible" 30 per cent of his ILA officials have police records. However, Ryan said he wasn't aware of any wholesale infiltration of the ILS by hoodlums, gangsters and ex-convicts.

Ryan draws a $20,000 a year salary from the ILA. Commission figures showed, however, that he collected $241,097 from various ILA sources in five years ending last September.

Ryan testified he was summoned by the new district attorney of Brooklyn in 1940 — William O'Dwyer, later mayor of New York and U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

"He told me that Albert Anastasia and Tony Romeo were in control of Locals 346, 903 and 929 and what was I going to do about it?" Ryan recalled.

"I told him I didn't have the power but I would revoke the charters, and did so."

But new charters were issued, Ryan went on, new elections were held and the same gang ended up in control of these piers.

GOP To Check Gold Buried At Ft. Knox

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Republicans are going to check up on the government assets they have taken over from the Democrats—including the gold buried at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey announced tonight "the completion of plans for the verification of gold and silver bullion and other assets in the custody of the Treasury Department, and for the transfer of these assets to officials of the new administration."

Humphrey didn't suggest that anything was missing, and his announcement quoted a report from an advisory committee of consultants there is "no reason to doubt the accuracy of the Treasury's accounts."

Eisenhower Revives Old Living Cost Index

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower today revived for six more months an abandoned government cost of living index to "meet the needs of certain labor unions and business concerns who have contracts based on it."

The decision, Eisenhower's first in the labor relations field, was opposed in advance by the CIO which had hinted of dire consequences in the big auto industry.

On the other hand, many employers and some unions—notably the railroad brotherhoods with well over a million members—had appealed for continuing the old style index.

Course Favored By AFL

AFL President George Meany had likewise favored the course adopted by Eisenhower, but CIO President Walter Reuther was against continuing the old index.

The whole situation revolved around the fact that the government, after being ordered to do so by Congress several years ago, was dropping its "old" living cost series and substituting a more modern index, based on present day buying habits.

Even though employers and unions were on notice well in advance, they made few advance preparations for adapting their "escalator" contracts to the new index.

Secretary of Labor Durkin said in a statement that both the new and the old index series will be issued as soon as possible. He urged that employers and unions move quickly to convert their "escalator" clauses to the new index by June 30, when the revived old series will end.

May Upset Reuther's Plans

More than three million workers are employed under such contracts, which peg wage rates by fixed formula to the rise and fall of the government index. Most of the contracts call for renegotiation in the event the government changes its index form.

Reuther, whose contract with major auto producers, runs until mid-1955, had planned to try to use the new index as a basis for reopening talks on pension and pay rates.

Today's White House decision to continue the old index through next June 30 may upset Reuther's plans.

Weatherman Sees Cold Month Ahead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today its 30 day outlook for February calls "for temperatures to average below normal in the eastern two thirds of the country except for slightly above normal along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

"In the Far West above normal temperatures are indicated," the bureau said, adding:

"Precipitation is expected to exceed seasonal normals in the Atlantic States, Ohio Valley and Northern Rockies but subnormal amounts are predicted west of the Continental Divide.

French Forces Strike From Sea In Indochina

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 30 (AP)—The biggest amphibious landing of a six-year war placed a powerful French Union force in position today to shatter Vietminh bases across a wide strip of the Annamese coast and pull the heat off menaced Ankhe.

The French announced that several thousand troops-backed by naval guns and fighter-bombers from the carrier Arromanche—captured the port of Quinhon in a strike from the China Sea yesterday crushed two rebel companies that got in the way and established a solid bridgehead.

Czechs Quit UNESCO

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 30 (AP)—Prague radio announced tonight the Czech Embassy in Paris has informed headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization that Czechoslovakia is quitting that organization.

Section Of Lobby Act Held Invalid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Federal Lobbying Act was stripped of the second of its two key provisions by a federal judge today and may require an overhauling in Congress.

U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled unconstitutional a section which requires that persons engaged in lobbying activities before Congress must register with the government.

He said this section is invalid because it declared that anyone convicted of violating it shall be barred from lobbying for three years afterward. This penalty is a violation of constitutional rights, he said.

Justice Department officials declined to say whether they would appeal. At the Justice Department it was merely said that the effect of Judge Holtzoff's ruling would be "studied."

The other mainstay of the law required that anyone receiving money in connection with lobbying must file quarterly reports with Congress. It was knocked out last March because it contained penalties similar to the other section.

Dulles Gives New Prod To Faltering European Unity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles gave a new prod to faltering European unity plans today as he left for Europe on a fact-finding survey with a "good luck" send-off from President Eisenhower.

After a breakfast conference with Eisenhower and Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen at the White House, Dulles issued a statement that co-operation among the Western Allies is a matter of the "utmost importance."

European Army Plan Praised

The new secretary praised the scheme for a European army with German divisions, which France and Western Germany have delayed ratifying. He called it a "step toward that unity which all recognize as necessary," and said it was developed by the Europeans themselves "with great courage and imagination."

The statement seemingly was designed to reinforce, in somewhat softer words, the notice Dulles gave three days ago that if European leaders let chances for "effective unity" fade away the United States might have to change its aid policies.

Authoritative informants say the administration is worried that unless the French and West German Parliaments act on the European Defense Community treaties by March or April, the whole American aid policy may run into danger in the new Republican-dominated Congress.

Rome Is First Stop

This idea is among the pressure weapons available to Dulles and Stassen in their conference over the next 10 days with leaders in seven European capitals. They are due back Feb. 9 to submit findings which Dulles said the Eisenhower administration "will take into consideration in the formulation of policy."

Travelling in the President's personal four-engine plane, they left at 9:27 a. m. and are due early tomorrow in Rome. Later they will talk to government leaders in Paris, London, Bonn, The Hague, Brussels and Luxembourg.

Woman Sheds 100 Pounds In Year, Wins Championship

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Get a grip on yourselves, girls. America's 1952 champ woman weight shedder was picked today and she admitted she's just as hungry now as when she went on a rigid diet a year ago.

Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, 38, Milwaukee, has slimmed herself down from 271 to her present 171 pounds in 12 months and is shooting for a streamlined 129-pound figure by the end of the year.

That will be a 165-pound drop from the 294 pounds she scaled on Dec. 20, 1951.

Mrs. Schmidt, housewife and mother of two sons, was awarded a trophy today for being tops among the 2,500 members of TOPS TOPS stands for "taking Off Pounds Sensibly."

How is it done "sensibly?" By following this kind of a diet:

Breakfast — One half orange. Sometimes a soft-boiled egg. Black coffee, no sugar.

Luncheon — Small serving of plain lettuce. Small serving of vegetable. Three ounces of lean meat. Black coffee, no sugar.

Dinner — Small serving of dry cottage cheese. Plain lettuce. Slice of sausage or lean meat. Half grapefruit or raw apple. Black coffee, no sugar.

Action Would Allow Chiang To Raid China

Removal Of Fleet Barrier Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported on excellent authority tonight to be about ready to take the wraps off the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa, thus freeing them to raid the Communist mainland of China.

The U. S. Seventh Fleet has been standing guard, under a mandate from former President Truman to prevent attacks on the mainland by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, or attacks on Formosa by the Chinese Reds.

Under the Eisenhower order, if it is actually issued, the Seventh Fleet would no longer be a barrier to attacks from Formosa against the Communists.

Move May Come Monday

Highly placed sources said that announcement of this reversal of Truman administration policy for the neutralization of Formosa may be made in the President's State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress Monday.

One high government source said that Eisenhower is seriously considering the action. Others made clear that they consider it is virtually decided upon.

One purpose of the projected move is to create a new strategic threat to the Chinese Communist forces which are fighting the troops of the United States and Allied nations in Korea and the troops of France and of native states in Indochina.

Could Tie Up Red Forces

The possibility of a Nationalist strike from Formosa, and the danger which that possibility creates for China's main north-south rail line, might reduce the mobility of Red Chinese armies by tying up large forces in the regions across the 90-mile water gap between Formosa and the mainland.

One informant said that the proposed change in Formosa policy would not include any attempt by the United States to blockade the China coast, which is a separate and broader issue. Nor, it was said, would the new policy provide for specific United States assistance to aid Chiang in particular attempts to raid the mainland. However general programs of military and economic assistance, upon which Formosa's survival largely depends, are expected to be continued by the United States.

Hiss Is Denied Another Trial

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today denied a motion for a new trial for Alger Hiss. The former State Department official is serving a five-year prison term for perjury in denying he gave government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

The ruling was handed down by Chief Judge Thomas Swan and Judges Augustus N. Hand and Harrie B. Chase.

Hiss is serving his term in the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. He was convicted on two perjury counts in 1950 largely on the testimony of Whittaker Chambers.

Hiss had asked a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard had denied the motion, and Hiss' attorney had appealed.

Four Airmen Perish In Crash Of Bomber

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 30 (AP) — Four fliers were killed and three injured today in the crash of a B-50 bomber shortly after it took off from Hunter Air Force Base here.

It was the fourth crash involving Hunter-Based Planes within the past three months.

Rescue crews braved exploding gas tanks to drag the injured from the wreckage. The plane crashed from an altitude of about 100 feet just south of the main runway.

Dean Declares Russians Have Atom Weapons

AEC Chief Says 3 Bombs Exploded

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said today "there is no doubt" the Russians have "a supply of atomic weapons."

Dean issued a brief statement in response, he said, to inquiries from reporters.

There have been many of these inquiries since former President Truman expressed doubt last Monday that the Russians have a workable atomic bomb.

Dean's statement said:

"The following facts, among those available to the U. S. government, can be released on this point:

"(A) The USSR has produced fissionable materials in quantity.

"(B) With fissionable materials in hand, it is not a difficult technical job to make workable atomic weapons.

"(C) The USSR has exploded three atomic bombs—one in the late summer of 1949, two in the fall of 1951.

"(D) On the basis of the above facts, and other scientific and technical evidence, there is no doubt of the existence of a supply of atomic weapons in the USSR."

Truman said in Kansas City on Jan. 27 that there was some doubt in his mind that the Russians had developed a workable atomic bomb.

Three members of the Senate-House Atomic Committee had called Truman's remark "highly unfortunate."

Rep. Durham (D-NC) retiring chairman of the Atomic Committee, Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) former chairman, and Rep. Cole (R-NY) said the Truman statements contradicted "indisputable evidence not only available today but available in 1949."

Dock Union Boss Admits Mobsters Ran Some Locals

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Joseph P. Ryan, union boss of the New York waterfront, admitted today Murder, Inc., mobsters once took over three of his dock locals. He said he was powerless to oust them.

Nevertheless, the aging president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association closed out a State Crime Commission hearing by charging that waterfront crime "is greatly exaggerated."

He later admitted it is "possible" 30 per cent of his ILA officials have police records. However, Ryan said he wasn't aware of any wholesale infiltration of the ILS by hoodlums, gangsters and ex-convicts.

Ryan draws a $20,000 a year salary from the ILA. Commission figures showed, however, that he collected $241,097 from various ILA sources in five years ending last September.

Ryan testified he was summoned by the new district attorney of Brooklyn in 1940 — William O'Dwyer, later mayor of New York and U. S. ambassador to Mexico.

"He told me that Albert Anastasia and Tony Romeo were in control of Locals 346, 903 and 929 and what was I going to do about it?" Ryan recalled.

"I told him I didn't have the power but I would revoke the charters, and did so."

But new charters were issued, Ryan went on, new elections were held and the same gang ended up in control of these piers.

GOP To Check Gold Buried At Ft. Knox

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Republicans are going to check up on the government assets they have taken over from the Democrats—including the gold buried at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey announced tonight "the completion of plans for the verification of gold and silver bullion and other assets in the custody of the Treasury Department, and for the transfer of these assets to officials of the new administration."

Humphrey didn't suggest that anything was missing, and his announcement quoted a report from an advisory committee of consultants there is "no reason to doubt the accuracy of the Treasury's accounts."

She Lost But Won Championship

In 1951, Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, Milwaukee, Wis., had a snapshot (left) made as she weighed 294 pounds. In January, 1952, she weighed 271 and began low calorie diet as a member of the TOPS club (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). Yesterday she went to the TOPS Club luncheon in Chicago 100 pounds lighter and won the championship. With winner (polka-dot dress) in yesterday's photo (right) is Mrs. Esther Manz, president and founder of the club. (Story at bottom of page)

Eisenhower Revives Old Living Cost Index

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower today revived for six more months an abandoned government cost of living index to "meet the needs of certain labor unions and business concerns who have contracts based on it."

The decision, Eisenhower's first in the labor relations field, was opposed in advance by the CIO which had hinted of dire consequences in the big auto industry.

On the other hand, many employers and some unions—notably the railroad brotherhoods with well over a million members—had appealed for continuing the old style index.

Course Favored By AFL

AFL President George Meany had likewise favored the course adopted by Eisenhower, but CIO President Walter Reuther was against continuing the old index.

The whole situation revolved around the fact that the government, after being ordered to do so by Congress several years ago, was dropping its "old" living cost series and substituting a more modern index, based on present day buying habits.

Even though employers and unions were on notice well in advance, they made few advance preparations for adapting their "escalator" contracts to the new index.

Secretary of Labor Durkin said in a statement that both the new and the old index series will be issued as soon as possible. He urged that employers and unions move quickly to convert their "escalator" clauses to the new index by June 30, when the revived old series will end.

May Upset Reuther's Plans

More than three million workers are employed under such contracts, which peg wage rates by fixed formula to the rise and fall of the government index. Most of the contracts call for renegotiation in the event the government changes its index form.

Reuther, whose contract with major auto producers, runs until mid-1955, had planned to try to use the new index as a basis for reopening talks on pension and pay rates.

Today's White House decision to continue the old index through next June 30 may upset Reuther's plans.

French Forces Strike From Sea In Indochina

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 30 (AP)—The biggest amphibious landing of a six-year war placed a powerful French Union force in position today to shatter Vietminh bases across a wide strip of the Annamese coast and pull the heat off menaced Ankhe.

The French announced that several thousand troops-backed by naval guns and fighter-bombers from the carrier Arromanche—captured the port of Quinhon in a strike from the China Sea yesterday crushed two rebel companies that got in the way and established a solid bridgehead.

Czechs Quit UNESCO

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 30 (AP)—Prague radio announced tonight the Czech Embassy in Paris has informed headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization that Czechoslovakia is quitting that organization.

Weatherman Sees Cold Month Ahead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today its 30 day outlook for February calls "for temperatures to average below normal in the eastern two thirds of the country except for slightly above normal along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

"In the Far West above normal temperatures are indicated," the bureau said, adding:

"Precipitation is expected to exceed seasonal normals in the Atlantic States, Ohio Valley and Northern Rockies but subnormal amounts are predicted west of the Continental Divide.

Section Of Lobby Act Held Invalid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Federal Lobbying Act was stripped of the second of its two key provisions by a federal judge today and may require an overhauling in Congress.

U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled unconstitutional a section which requires that persons engaged in lobbying activities before Congress must register with the government.

He said this section is invalid because it declared that anyone convicted of violating it shall be barred from lobbying for three years afterward. This penalty is a violation of constitutional rights, he said.

Justice Department officials declined to say whether they would appeal. At the Justice Department it was merely said that the effect of Judge Holtzoff's ruling would be "studied."

The other mainstay of the law required that anyone receiving money in connection with lobbying must file quarterly reports with Congress. It was knocked out last March because it contained penalties similar to the other section.

Dulles Gives New Prod To Faltering European Unity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles gave a new prod to faltering European unity plans today as he left for Europe on a fact-finding survey with a "good luck" send-off from President Eisenhower.

After a breakfast conference with Eisenhower and Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen at the White House, Dulles issued a statement that co-operation among the Western Allies is a matter of the "utmost importance."

European Army Plan Praised

The new secretary praised the scheme for a European army with German divisions, which France and Western Germany have delayed ratifying. He called it a "step toward that unity which all recognize as necessary," and said it was developed by the Europeans themselves "with great courage and imagination."

The statement seemingly was designed to reinforce, in somewhat softer words, the notice Dulles gave three days ago that if European leaders let chances for "effective unity" fade away the United States might have to change its aid policies.

Authoritative informants say the administration is worried that unless the French and West German Parliaments act on the European Defense Community treaties by March or April, the whole American aid policy may run into danger in the new Republican-dominated Congress.

Rome Is First Stop

This idea is among the pressure weapons available to Dulles and Stassen in their conference over the next 10 days with leaders in seven European capitals. They are due back Feb. 9 to submit findings which Dulles said the Eisenhower administration "will take into consideration in the formulation of policy."

Travelling in the President's personal four-engine plane, they left at 9:27 a. m. and are due early tomorrow in Rome. Later they will talk to government leaders in Paris, London, Bonn, The Hague, Brussels and Luxembourg.

Woman Sheds 100 Pounds In Year, Wins Championship

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Get a grip on yourselves, girls. America's 1952 champ woman weight shedder was picked today and she admitted she's just as hungry now as when she went on a rigid diet a year ago.

Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, 38, Milwaukee, has slimmed herself down from 271 to her present 171 pounds in 12 months and is shooting for a streamlined 129-pound figure by the end of the year.

That will be a 165-pound drop from the 294 pounds she scaled on Dec. 20, 1951.

Mrs. Schmidt, housewife and mother of two sons, was awarded a trophy today for being tops among the 2,500 members of TOPS TOPS stands for "taking Off Pounds Sensibly."

How is it done "sensibly?" By following this kind of a diet:

Breakfast — One half orange. Sometimes a soft-boiled egg. Black coffee, no sugar.

Luncheon — Small serving of plain lettuce. Small serving of vegetable. Three ounces of lean meat. Black coffee, no sugar.

Action Would Allow Chiang To Raid China

Removal Of Fleet Barrier Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported on excellent authority tonight to be about ready to take the wraps off the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa, thus freeing them to raid the Communist mainland of China.

The U. S. Seventh Fleet has been standing guard, under a mandate from former President Truman to prevent attacks on the mainland by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, or attacks on Formosa by the Chinese Reds.

Under the Eisenhower order, if it is actually issued, the Seventh Fleet would no longer be a barrier to attacks from Formosa against the Communists.

Move May Come Monday

Highly placed sources said that announcement of this reversal of Truman administration policy for the neutralization of Formosa may be made in the President's State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress Monday.

One high government source said that Eisenhower is seriously considering the action. Others made clear that they consider it is virtually decided upon.

One purpose of the projected move is to create a new strategic threat to the Chinese Communist forces which are fighting the troops of the United States and Allied nations in Korea and the troops of France and of native states in Indochina.

Could Tie Up Red Forces

The possibility of a Nationalist strike from Formosa, and the danger which that possibility creates for China's main north-south rail line, might reduce the mobility of Red Chinese armies by tying up large forces in the regions across the 90-mile water gap between Formosa and the mainland.

One informant said that the proposed change in Formosa policy would not include any attempt by the United States to blockade the China coast, which is a separate and broader issue. Nor, it was said, would the new policy provide for specific United States assistance to aid Chiang in particular attempts to raid the mainland. However general programs of military and economic assistance, upon which Formosa's survival largely depends, are expected to be continued by the United States.

Hiss Is Denied Another Trial

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today denied a motion for a new trial for Alger Hiss. The former State Department official is serving a five-year prison term for perjury in denying he gave government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

The ruling was handed down by Chief Judge Thomas Swan and Judges Augustus N. Hand and Harrie B. Chase.

Hiss is serving his term in the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. He was convicted on two perjury counts in 1950 largely on the testimony of Whittaker Chambers.

Hiss had asked a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard had denied the motion, and Hiss' attorney had appealed.

Four Airmen Perish In Crash Of Bomber

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 30 (AP) — Four fliers were killed and three injured today in the crash of a B-50 bomber shortly after it took off from Hunter Air Force Base here.

It was the fourth crash involving Hunter-Based Planes within the past three months.

Rescue crews braved exploding gas tanks to drag the injured from the wreckage. The plane crashed from an altitude of about 100 feet just south of the main runway.

Fire Rages In Pusan; 2,000 Made Homeless

PUSAN, Jan. 31 (Saturday) (INS)—Fire destroyed three city blocks in Pusan late Friday night and continued unchecked as American and Korean fire-fighters were hampered by the city water shortage.

Two thousand persons were homeless and a total of 10,000 Americans and Koreans had been evacuated from threatened areas.

Oysters Appear On Bill Of Fare At Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Oysters made their expected appearance today as a prominent item on the bill of fare at the Maryland General Assembly.

The leasing of oyster lands by the state to private individuals, one of the most indigestible legislative offerings for years, was served up with all the dressings by three Western Shore delegates.

The bill is essentially the same big package which was swallowed by the Senate in 1951 but rejected in the House.

It not only is designed to encourage leasing in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, but also would open up the Potomac River for the first time.

Watermen themselves are divided in opinions over leasing of bottoms to grow oysters. One side claims the bottoms belong to the public and leasing would hurt the livelihood of the "little man" without finances for buying and growing his own. The other argues the state can't afford to grow them for all.

In addition to the oyster leasing, the House received another potential hot potato in a proposed use tax on heavy trucks. Introduced by Republican Delegates Marshall and Mrs. Lawlor of Montgomery County, it would put a special tax on trucks over 18,000 pounds according to the number of miles they traveled in Maryland. A similar attempt failed two years ago.

Lewis Unanimously Reelected UMW Boss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — John L. Lewis was unanimousy reelected president of the United Mineworkers of America by the largest vote in the union's history. UMW headquarters announced today.

Lewis, who will be 73 years old soon, received 294,263 votes for another four-year term, in an uncontested election held in December.

That was 7,759 votes more than he has ever received before for the union's highest office.

Rate Boost Sought By Railway Express

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Railway Express Agency today sought a new increase in virtually all express charges, roughly averaging 25 per cent.

The petition, filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, made no estimate of what the proposed hikes would cost the general public in annual billings.

However, the company said the increases were urgently needed to help wipe out a 70 million dollars operating deficit piled up during 1952.

More Than Firm Bargained For

CINCINNATI, Jan. 30 (AP)—A local dry cleaning concern has long advertised that it will clean American flags free.

Today the company got the surprise of its life when a downtown store brought in a 26 by 45 foot banner, said to be the third largest flag in use in the United States.

Foster P. Mitchell, sales manager for the cleaning firm sighed: "We don't know how, but we'll clean it."

Charlie Vermillion, 44, of Hazard, was reported in serious condition at Mount Mary Hospital here. Attendants said he was shot through the neck and left leg. Vermillioin, a UMW organizer, also is a Perry County constable.

T. N. Fleming, a UMW organizer from Letcher County, was shot in the right arm, the right side and left hand.

Lester Collins, 30, a union member from Clay County, suffered a flesh wound when a bullet grazed his chest.

Millard Wagers of Tribbey, the other union organizer, was cut on the face by shattered glass, but was not hit by any bullets.

Jewish Refugees Given Fresh Help

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Fresh help came today for refugees fleeing the Communist terror in East Germany.

The American Joint Distribution Committee, a Jewish agency, set up special relief machinery to care for the Jewish refugees, 20 more of whom slipped into West Berlin today.

A West German spokesman in Bonn announced the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, Dr. G. J. Van Heuven Goedart, has allotted $100,000 from a Ford Foundation grant to build shelters for the homeless when they are flown to West Germany. The United States yesterday released about $60,000 in Marshal Plan counterpart funds to buy such things as food, bedding and medicine.

Some of the escaping Jews had stories of horror. They said they were threatened by secret police with execution and with the death of their children unless they agreed to spy on other Jews.

They told of being questioned for hours, forbidden to leave their homes, their documents seized, their mail intercepted and their telephones tapped.

The subcommittee, he said, will look into "the impact of totalitarian methods of espionage and subversion on the foreign policy of the United States."

'First Fender Law' Might Be Enacted In Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30. (AP) — A Maryland legislator today dredged a somewhat obscure maritime legal gimmick, thinking it might help protect auto wreck victims from financial loss and perhaps even prevent some accidents.

Del. Samuel Hopkins, young Baltimore attorney, introduced a bill in the General Assembly embracing the idea, and if it is ever passed it is almost sure to become known as the "First Fender Law."

That is because it is patterned on the established "First Plank" law of the sea. If a ship hits anything, claims arising from the accident always attach to its first plank—a legal way of saying all and every part of the ship can be seized and the claim has first priority.

Now, suppose you hit something or someone with your car. Any claim against you as the result of the accident, under the First Fender Law, would become a first lien on your car. It would have priority over any other claim.

Here's what would happen: You're in an accident. The law confiscates your car until you: 1. Are absolved of blame. 2. Show you have enough liability insurance to cover any claims which might arise against you. 3. Or, put up enough cash or security to cover such claims.

If you are to blame and can't pay the damages, you lose your car.

But here's the real gimmick:

Suppose you are buying your car on the instalment plan. The finance company has required you to take out enough insurance to cover the car itself and it has first claim on your car or the insurance until you make the final payment.

Under the First Fender law, anyone you damaged would get first claim, supplanting the finance company.

That, Hopkins says, would give pause to the finance companies.

They wouldn't lend you the money to buy a car unless they were sure you had enough liability insurance to cover accident claims, in addition to insurance covering the car itself.

Mouse Cause Of Fire In Which Three Die

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — Three persons died today in a Brooklyn fire that started because of a mouse.

Fire authorities said the building's owner, Mrs. Elizabeth Ethel Thomas, 60, Negro, heard a mouse and crawled under a bed with a lighted candle to investigate.

Bed clothes caught fire. Flames spread through the building. Mrs. Thomas suffered fatal injuries.

Upstairs, in a fourth-floor apartment, Mrs. Marcella Robinson, 47, Negro, and her 9-year-old daughter, Veronica, also were killed.

There are 6,080 feet in a sea mile.

In the English used in the Middle Ages, "trade" meant "path" and was linked to the word "tread."

GI Beaten To Death By Three Red POWs

PUSAN, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 31 (AP)—Three North Korean prisoners of war beat to death an American soldier in a Koje Island compound Wednesday, touching off a disturbance which required tear gas to quell, the U. N. Command said Friday.

The soldier, a private, went into the compound at Choguir with a Republic of Korea army sergeant to clear barracks of prisoners for the twice-daily prisoner count.

The ROK sergeant later missed the American. By the time he was found, the soldier had been fatally beaten and died on arrival at a hospital.

"And they consume a great quantity of snacks," he added.

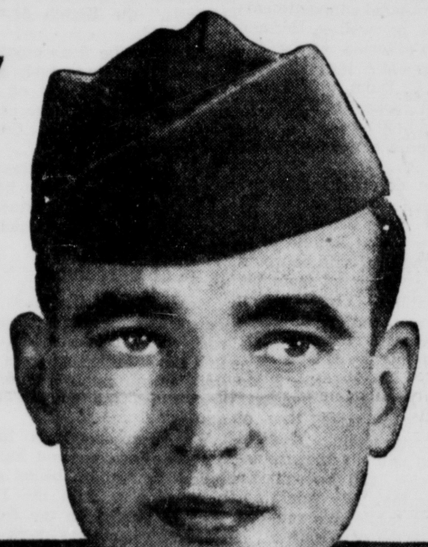
"Why I Gave Blood"

Sergeant Douglas A. Fleischhauer

Korean War Veteran, "Interviews" Four Americans at a New York Blood Donor Center.



"Is the need for blood urgent? All I know is what I saw—in Korea. Guys being brought in and—well, it was like a miracle seeing them brought back to life with blood given by some American 7,000 miles away! If blood can do that—not just in Korea, but anywhere it's needed—then giving blood is an A-1 priority job for all of us.

"When I got back home, I wanted to visit a blood donor center . . . to see what goes on . . . to see what kind of people give blood . . . and why.

"I went. And I saw. The place was calm and quiet. And friendly. Without knowing each other, people talked like they were old friends. Seems like they were waiting for someone to ask them why they were rolling up their sleeves . . . and giving blood . . ."

"Biggest Battle Still Ahead!"

MARCIA STRAUSS, a nurse in a military hospital, told Sgt. Fleischhauer: "You saw it in Korea. I see it here, in my hospital, every day . . . men whose fighting days are over, yet their biggest battle—the battle for life itself—is still being fought. You can't watch that—as I have—and not come here to give blood."

"There's a Home Front, Too!"

RALPH FOLZ, a brawny-armed steel worker, said: "They say we need so much blood. I think to myself—I work in a defense plant. Supposing a guy gets hurt bad. He's helping the guys in Korea, right? It's important having him on the job, right? They can send my blood wherever they need it most."

"Some Day I Might Need It!"

NANCY RACKETT, an attractive secretary, said: "I'm a Civil Defense worker. Many times I've thought, supposing we are attacked here . . . then what? People don't stop to think. They think there's not much fighting these days so why give blood. What I think is some day I might need it."

"It's Like Voting!"

RICHARD GAY, businessman, spoke up: "I thought while I'm here I'll give blood. You know, you live in a town, you belong to a church, a lodge, a parents' group. You're a citizen, you've got certain obligations and privileges. Like voting. Giving blood is like voting. It's an obligation and a privilege."

Charlie Vermillion, 44, of Hazard, was reported in serious condition at Mount Mary Hospital here. Attendants said he was shot through the neck and left leg. Vermillioin, a UMW organizer, also is a Perry County constable.

T. N. Fleming, a UMW organizer from Letcher County, was shot in the right arm, the right side and left hand.

Lester Collins, 30, a union member from Clay County, suffered a flesh wound when a bullet grazed his chest.

Millard Wagers of Tribbey, the other union organizer, was cut on the face by shattered glass, but was not hit by any bullets.

Jewish Refugees Given Fresh Help

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Fresh help came today for refugees fleeing the Communist terror in East Germany.

The American Joint Distribution Committee, a Jewish agency, set up special relief machinery to care for the Jewish refugees, 20 more of whom slipped into West Berlin today.

A West German spokesman in Bonn announced the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, Dr. G. J. Van Heuven Goedart, has allotted $100,000 from a Ford Foundation grant to build shelters for the homeless when they are flown to West Germany. The United States yesterday released about $60,000 in Marshal Plan counterpart funds to buy such things as food, bedding and medicine.

Some of the escaping Jews had stories of horror. They said they were threatened by secret police with execution and with the death of their children unless they agreed to spy on other Jews.

They told of being questioned for hours, forbidden to leave their homes, their documents seized, their mail intercepted and their telephones tapped.

'First Fender Law' Might Be Enacted In Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30. (AP) — A Maryland legislator today dredged a somewhat obscure maritime legal gimmick, thinking it might help protect auto wreck victims from financial loss and perhaps even prevent some accidents.

Del. Samuel Hopkins, young Baltimore attorney, introduced a bill in the General Assembly embracing the idea, and if it is ever passed it is almost sure to become known as the "First Fender Law."

That is because it is patterned on the established "First Plank" law of the sea. If a ship hits anything, claims arising from the accident always attach to its first plank—a legal way of saying all and every part of the ship can be seized and the claim has first priority.

Now, suppose you hit something or someone with your car. Any claim against you as the result of the accident, under the First Fender Law, would become a first lien on your car. It would have priority over any other claim.

Here's what would happen: You're in an accident. The law confiscates your car until you: 1. Are absolved of blame. 2. Show you have enough liability insurance to cover any claims which might arise against you. 3. Or, put up enough cash or security to cover such claims.

If you are to blame and can't pay the damages, you lose your car.

But here's the real gimmick:

Suppose you are buying your car on the instalment plan. The finance company has required you to take out enough insurance to cover the car itself and it has first claim on your car or the insurance until you make the final payment.

Under the First Fender law, anyone you damaged would get first claim, supplanting the finance company.

That, Hopkins says, would give pause to the finance companies.

They wouldn't lend you the money to buy a car unless they were sure you had enough liability insurance to cover accident claims, in addition to insurance covering the car itself.

Mouse Cause Of Fire In Which Three Die

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP) — Three persons died today in a Brooklyn fire that started because of a mouse.

Fire authorities said the building's owner, Mrs. Elizabeth Ethel Thomas, 60, Negro, heard a mouse and crawled under a bed with a lighted candle to investigate.

Bed clothes caught fire. Flames spread through the building. Mrs. Thomas suffered fatal injuries.

Upstairs, in a fourth-floor apartment, Mrs. Marcella Robinson, 47, Negro, and her 9-year-old daughter, Veronica, also were killed.

There are 6,080 feet in a sea mile.

In the English used in the Middle Ages, "trade" meant "path" and was linked to the word "tread."

PUSAN, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 31 (AP)—Three North Korean prisoners of war beat to death an American soldier in a Koje Island compound Wednesday, touching off a disturbance which required tear gas to quell, the U. N. Command said Friday.

The ROK sergeant later missed the American. By the time he was found, the soldier had been fatally beaten and died on arrival at a hospital.

"Why I Gave Blood"

Korean War Veteran, "Interviews" Four Americans at a New York Blood Donor Center.

"Is the need for blood urgent? All I know is what I saw—in Korea. Guys being brought in and—well, it was like a miracle seeing them brought back to life with blood given by some American 7,000 miles away! If blood can do that—not just in Korea, but anywhere it's needed—then giving blood is an A-1 priority job for all of us.

"When I got back home, I wanted to visit a blood donor center . . . to see what goes on . . . to see what kind of people give blood . . . and why.

"I went. And I saw. The place was calm and quiet. And friendly. Without knowing each other, people talked like they were old friends. Seems like they were waiting for someone to ask them why they were rolling up their sleeves . . . and giving blood . . ."

"Biggest Battle Still Ahead!"

MARCIA STRAUSS, a nurse in a military hospital, told Sgt. Fleischhauer: "You saw it in Korea. I see it here, in my hospital, every day . . . men whose fighting days are over, yet their biggest battle—the battle for life itself—is still being fought. You can't watch that—as I have—and not come here to give blood."

"There's a Home Front, Too!"

RALPH FOLZ, a brawny-armed steelworker, said: "They say we need so much blood. I think to myself—I work in a defense plant. Supposing a guy gets hurt bad. He's helping the guys in Korea, right? It's important having him on the job, right? They can send my blood wherever they need it most."

"Some Day I Might Need It!"

NANCY RACKETT, an attractive secretary, said: "I'm a Civil Defense worker. Many times I've thought, supposing we are attacked here . . . then what? People don't stop to think. They think there's not much fighting these days so why give blood. What I think is some day I might need it."

"It's Like Voting!"

RICHARD GAY, businessman, spoke up: "I thought while I'm here I'll give blood. You know, you live in a town, you belong to a church, a lodge, a parents' group. You're a citizen, you've got certain obligations and privileges. Like voting. Giving blood is like voting. It's an obligation and a privilege."

Blood Donors Will Assist In Polio Project

Persons who will contribute blood during the visit here next Tuesday of the Johnstown (Pa.) Red Cross mobile unit will be assisting the Red Cross in compiling a reserve of the blood derivative, gamma globulin, which is needed in combating polio.

An official of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter yesterday morning said that a portion of the county's quota of the blood donated will be earmarked for that purpose. The county is allotted half of the blood serviced and the other half goes to the armed forces.

The Red Cross official explained that an early start is deemed necessary in the stockpiling project as it is estimated that polio will reach the epidemic stage in more than 150 counties in the country this summer, when it is normally most prevalent.

Residents of Allegany County are asked by the Red Cross to support this project by donating blood during next Tuesday's visit. Chapter officials said a check of records was made for those who had volunteered to donate blood on a regular basis and that the greater portion of this month's quota is hoped to be obtained from these donors. It was stressed, however, that others who wish to donate may do so either by contacting Red Cross headquarters or by visiting the unit's headquarters in the Eagles Building any time that day between noon and 6 p. m.

The mobile unit will be in Lonaconing next Monday to service donors for that community, Midland and Barton. Unit headquarters will be at the home of Alvin C. Neat Post 5280, VFW, between noon and 6 p. m.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS) — The 71st anniversary of the birth of Franklin D. Roosevelt, dead since April 12, 1945, causes one to ponder what he would have been doing now if he were alive. He would be younger than such world figures as Churchill, Stalin and MacArthur, and only three years older than Truman.

Steve Early told me once that he believed Roosevelt would have bowed out of the White House at the end of his fourth term and would have accepted the post of editor of what Steve identified only as "a New York tabloid." He would have written a syndicated column, Steve also believed.

This might have been the most knowledgeable prediction of what Roosevelt would have done if he had lived. Apparently, he never confided his plans to his family, else it would long since have been known. Some believed he dreamed of heading the American delegation to UN after leaving the White House; others that he would have preferred the UN post of President of the Assembly.

There must be those, too, who would swear that if F.D.R. lived he would never have wanted to leave the White House. It was becoming apparent even to the most enthusiastic russophiles among us around convention time, 1948, that the Soviet Union was our enemy. The Berlin blockade was clamped on about that time; there was a hint of war, and (some believe) Mr. Roosevelt would have considered himself called upon to run again.

We recently dealt with the woes of Presidents who must operate under the eye of living ex-presidents. As a case in point, Mr. Truman airily dismissed President Eisenhower's role in World War II the other day by giving Gen. George C. Marshall the credit for drawing up the plans which "others"—presumably Eisenhower and MacArthur—carried out.

We commiserated with the memory of President John Quincy Adams and President James Polk, each of whom had four living ex-presidents to worry about through portions of their term. We thought that was the high mark, but Frank Fortune of the Washington Bureau of the Buffalo Evening News reminds me that Lincoln held the record—with five.

Honest Abe's facial wrinkles were born of a first term marked not only by war but by the kibitzing of ex-presidents Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan.

Ed Sullivan, my newspaper compatriot; Ed Sullivan, of Twentieth Century Fox's public relations staff, and Ed Sullivan of the Los Angeles Examiner will be pleased to learn that I've just received a note from Ed Sullivan of Transworld Airlines announcing a TWA tour of Ireland composed only of Sullivans and O'Sullivans.

The trip, leaving New York April 6 and returning April 19, will see the small army of Sullivans troop along paths used by Donal O'Sullivan Beare in his epic retreat from Dunboy Castle in the sixteenth century. The Sullivans, and O'S, will visit Dublin's Jesuit Church in Gardiner Street, whose Rev. John Sullivan is up for beatification. The Sullivan mob will be put up at Dublin's Gresham Hotel—Toddy O'Sullivan, managing director.

The name Sullivan goes back to 1000 B.C. It means "one eye" in Gaelic. Seems that the original O'Sullivan, struck by the poverty and misery of a beggar, asked the man what he needed. The man begged for his sight, whereupon, the legend goes, O'Sullivan gave him an eye.

Another Sullivan legend is that an ancient Druid with a good-looking daughter put her up for grabs, the winner to be the suitor who performed the most outstanding deed. Fellow named O'Sullivan won it by sending one of his eyes to the old boy.

Anyway, Lord bechune them and all harm!

The addition to the present structure will increase the seating capacity from 100 to 225, Rev. Mr. Hartman said. Construction will be of concrete block and brick, to match the church. Honest Abe's facial wrinkles were born of a first term marked not only by war but by the kibitzing of ex-presidents Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan.

Ed Sullivan, my newspaper compatriot; Ed Sullivan, of Twentieth Century Fox's public relations staff, and Ed Sullivan of the Los Angeles Examiner will be pleased to learn that I've just received a note from Ed Sullivan of Transworld Airlines announcing a TWA tour of Ireland composed only of Sullivans and O'Sullivans.

The trip, leaving New York April 6 and returning April 19, will see the small army of Sullivans troop along paths used by Donal O'Sullivan Beare in his epic retreat from Dunboy Castle in the sixteenth century. The Sullivans, and O'S, will visit Dublin's Jesuit Church in Gardiner Street, whose Rev. John Sullivan is up for beatification. The Sullivan mob will be put up at Dublin's Gresham Hotel—Toddy O'Sullivan, managing director.

The name Sullivan goes back to 1000 B.C. It means "one eye" in Gaelic. Seems that the original O'Sullivan, struck by the poverty and misery of a beggar, asked the man what he needed. The man begged for his sight, whereupon, the legend goes, O'Sullivan gave him an eye.

Another Sullivan legend is that an ancient Druid with a good-looking daughter put her up for grabs, the winner to be the suitor who performed the most outstanding deed. Fellow named O'Sullivan won it by sending one of his eyes to the old boy.

Anyway, Lord bechune them and all harm!

Expansion Program Set By Mapleside Church

A ground-breaking ceremony which will mark an expansion program at Mapleside Church will be held Monday at 5 p. m., Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor, said yesterday.

The speaker will be Rev. John Bayley Jones, a former pastor of Mapleside Church and now serving at First Church, Frostburg. William R. Hout, manager of the Hout Construction Company, which will conduct the work, will break the ground signaling the start of the construction work.

The addition to the present structure will increase the seating capacity from 100 to 225, Rev. Mr. Hartman said. Construction will be of concrete block and brick, to match the church. The addition will include three rooms for the church school and another large room which will be used to handle overflow crowds.

State-Of-The-Union

When President Eisenhower goes before Congress on Monday, it will be the first time that the State-of-the-Union message has been delivered by a chief executive who has newly assumed the Presidency.

Until the 20th Amendment became effective in October 1933, the message had come in December of every year. A newly elected President would have been inaugurated in the preceding March, nine months before the delivery of his first State-of-the-Union message.

In and after 1934, when F. D. Roosevelt had been President for ten months, the annual sessions of Congress began in January, which became the month for State-of-the-Union messages. The first of Truman was delivered in January 1946 when he had been in the White House for nine months.

Styles change in the State-of-the-Union message. Even the term has changed; it used to be the "annual message." The phrase was a misnomer; the Constitution prescribes "information of the State of the Union from time to time"—which could be more or less often than once a year.

The first 12 State-of-the-Union messages were delivered in person. Jefferson, who disliked speaking in public, sent in his first message in writing, and his example was followed by the next 24 Presidents.

It was Woodrow Wilson, polished and effective orator, who resurrected the practice of speaking the message in person. This meant it had to be much shorter—the annual messages sent by T. Roosevelt and Taft had taken hours when declaimed by the reading clerks of Congress. The first State-of-the-Union message of Wilson was one-ninth as long as the last of Taft.

Also, Wilson believed in hitting only the high spots in this message, leaving other specific problems for special messages devoted to them. Before Wilson, the State-of-the-Union message had been apt to cover everything under the sun—with the first part handling foreign relations whether or not these happened to be pressing at the time.

After the budget system was adopted in 1921, financial and tax problems could be left, at least in detail, to the annual budget message. That also made for shorter State-of-the-Union messages.

When the first President appeared before the first Congress in joint session, he directed a part of his message to the House alone. This was because that part dealt with revenues, and the House was charged under the Constitution with originating revenue bills.

Then each branch of Congress sent Washington a message acknowledging his message, and to each he sent an acknowledgement of its acknowledgement. This Alphonse-and-Gaston business was ended under Jefferson.

Theodore Roosevelt in 1901-09 breathed new life into the old bones. He believed that legislative programs had to be formulated by the President rather than by Congress alone, and his State-of-the-Union messages were designed to strengthen popular support for "my policies." They were eloquent lay sermons reflecting a vibrant personality. Ike's may be the same.

Buying "Hot" Tin

U. S. government will soon be buying "hot" tin. Bolivia has proclaimed the nationalization of her tin mines, but is unwilling to pay compensation to former owners. The new regime of President Paz Estenssoro doesn't put it that way: it says it will pay for the mines after the companies have paid several times as much in alleged taxes and penalties.

But the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, sole U. S. buyer and seller of tin, has just signed a contract for 5,000 tons of Bolivian tin at $1.17½ cents a pound, f. o. b. South America.

This seems like a dubious course to follow, especially as Americans own a great deal of the stock of the seized mines. But there are several complicating factors. It is the RFC's job to see that the United States gets enough tin for national security stockpiles, and gets it at a fair price.

The RFC has been negotiating with Bolivia for more than a year—or refusing to buy because negotiations had broken down. Now that the price is considered about right, it has contracted for only 5,000 tons, compared to the 54,000 tons which it agreed to buy at $1.18 from Indonesia over a three-year period.

Before the Korean War tin was selling for 75 cents a pound. The United States, caught with its stockpiles down, started buying. The Belgian-Dutch-British-Bolivian tin cartel, the RFC charged, deliberately reduced output by 30 per cent and forced prices above $2 a pound. The situation became so fantastic that the RFC suspended buying entirely in July 1951 to await lower prices.

But Bolivia still demanded more than the world price. In October 1951, when the RFC was bidding $1.12, Bolivia was asking $1.50 and angrily charging that American tin price policies would shove her into "economic, political and social changes."

Politics being what it is in Latin America, this prediction may have been a safe one. It came true, anyway. Bolivia had another revolution, establishing a government of very dubious character.

Italian Sea Queen

Arrival at New York of the steamship Andrea Doria, new queen of the Italian merchant marine, coincides with publication of statistics at London showing the maritime recuperation of the three vanquished Axis powers of World War II, now allies of the United States.

These three powers set the pace in building merchant ships in 1952, according to a report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping. The seafaring Japanese led in the launching of 605,000 tons of new ships, raising Japan's postwar fleet to 2,787,000 tons. The Italians were the next fastest to recover—372,000 tons built in 1952 for a total merchant fleet of 3,289,000 tons. The Germans were third with 367,000 tons for a total of 1,398,000.

In both cargo ships and tankers the Soviet Union's postwar construction has been small—a mere 39,000 tons in 1951, the latest figure available. Russia's entire merchant fleet is listed at 2,261,000 tons. The United States dominates the seas with a total of 27,245,000 tons.

The Italian merchant marine has a long and honorable tradition upon the seas of the world. The Andrea Doria, making her debut in New York harbor, is a 30,000-ton passenger ship luxurious in appointments, fast in speed, decorated with magnificent proofs of the skill of Italian artists and craftsmen. She is a welcome evidence of Italian economic recuperation, to which American aid has contributed so greatly.

How To Keep Well

Eczema In Babies

Infantile eczema is an annoying disease not only to children but to parents and physicians. In more than half the cases the cause of this allergic disturbance is traceable to something the youngster is eating. Most victims are bottle-fed or receive supplemental feedings.

The eruption prefers the flushing areas of the cheeks. From here the outbreak spreads to the forehead, ears, neck, behind the ears, and to the creases of the elbows. The skin is reddened at first, followed by water blisters that rupture, ooze, and dry into crusts. The lesions usually are distorted by the youngster, who scratches and rubs to ease itching. To complicate the picture for the physician the appearance of the eruption is changed almost beyond recognition when parents use salves, ointments, or other home remedies.

Covering the skin with any of the preparations recommended for the treatment of eczema is only a small part of the cure. These substances vary from crude coal tar ointment to calamine lotion and are useful in minimizing irritation and keeping the disorder from spreading. But it is more important to find and eradicate the cause. Detection of the culprit may be possible through skin tests but this method is successful in only half the cases; for the remainder, the old trial and error method is needed.

The usual offenders are milk, eggs, wheat, potato, tomato, and orange. These foods must be eliminated from the diet one at a time and between each change the effect is noted. When the allergen is not discovered in this way it may be that the rules of the game are not understood thoroughly. A child who is sensitive to milk, for example, may be getting bread and crackers containing milk. Those who are sensitive to corn should not be given corn flakes or other substances prepared with this vegetable. Rye bread is loaded with wheat and let us not forget that lanolin is taboo for youngsters who are sensitive to wool. These points are mentioned to stress the need for becoming thoroughly acquainted with the ingredients of prepared and other substances.

What about the bottlefed baby who is sensitive to cow's milk? There are substitutes including goat's milk and soybean products. Now and then evaporated milk is tolerated whereas ordinary pasteurized milk from the dairy is not. Mother must be careful about her diet when her nursing infant has eczema because the offending agents may be transmitted through the milk ducts.

There are hundreds of other precautions to be considered when the rash does not disappear completely. Weight loss may help some because eczema thrives on chubby youngsters. A deliberate attempt should be made to keep the little one from scratching or irritating the lesions. Heavy cardboard cuffs at the elbows will prevent bending of the arms and occasionally other restraints are necessary. It is a good policy to keep the finger nails clean and well trimmed. The more ingenious child may rub his face against the sheets. Should this occur, ask the physician for an old X-ray film or buy some plastic material that can be fastened to the mattress with adhesive tape under the spot occupied by the baby's head.

EGG PARTS

Mrs. T. writes: What is the best part of the egg, the white or the yellow?

REPLY

From the nutritional standpoint, the yellow contains more food elements, particularly fat. The white has approximately the same amount of proteins and minerals as the yolk.

REMOVAL OF ADRENALS

G. V. writes: I have heard that removal of the adrenal glands is a cure for cancer. Is this true?

REPLY

No. The procedure has been advocated in far advanced cancers to relieve pain.

DOUBLE HERNIA

F. Y. writes: What is a bilateral inguinal hernia?

REPLY

This term refers to a hernia in each groin caused by inherent weakness of the abdominal wall in this area.

GRAY TEEN-AGERS

E. F. writes: My sister is 18 and I'm 14 and we both discovered a few gray hairs. I don't think this is hereditary because our mother is 50 and doesn't have gray hair. Could you help us?

REPLY

How about your dad? Even though you and your sister found a few stray gray hairs, this does not mean that the depigmentation will proceed rapidly. Remember that God gives us these few gray hairs to remind old and young that time is passing.

COLD AND COUGH

Mrs. F. writes: Why do iced drinks induce coughing?

REPLY

Because cold irritates the back of the throat and stimulates the cough reflex. But this is an uncommon reaction as most of us are able to drink ice cold liquids without being bothered in this way.

Gen. Collins Tackles Problem Of South Korean Army; CIA Approves Action Against Oil Companies; Hot Chili Leaves Truman Cold On Tidelands

WASHINGTON — Real story behind Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins' rush trip to Korea is that it was to straighten out bickering over the South Korean army.

Conflicting reports have been sent to the Pentagon as to how big a role the South Korean army can play. Gen. James Van Fleet, outgoing Eighth Army commander, has been optimistic about turning the fighting over to the South Koreans. However, his boss in the Far East, Gen. Mark Clark, has been pessimistic.

To make matters worse, the American training mission has demanded seasoned South Korean officers to help speed the training of green, new troops. This would take South Koreans away from the front, and the battle commanders warn that the South Korean army is short of good officers, that they can't be spared from the front.

The whole problem was dumped in President Eisenhower's lap by General Collins just one day after the President took office. After listening carefully to Collins, however, Eisenhower ordered him to take off for Korea immediately and come up with a detailed plan on exactly how large the South Korean army can be built and how long it will take.

Oil Predicament

The National Security Council is so red-faced it won't breathe a word about it, but Central Intelligence has submitted a report indicating that the prosecution of the five U. S. oil companies in the Near East should not be dropped. Its report is exactly the opposite of the plea made by ex-Secretary of Defense Lovett for dropping prosecution.

Lovett had stirred up President Truman and other cabinet members by arguing that the Justice Department's criminal case against the oil companies would play into Russia's hands, would cause American companies to lose their Near Eastern concessions. He based this partly on a Central Intelligence report of last spring.

Recently, however, Central Intelligence submitted a new report. It stated that its survey of last spring was in error. Reaction to the government's prosecution of the oil companies, CIA stated, had not been bad.

The report made two other significant points:

1. If the case against the oil companies is prosecuted, there will be some reaction in the Near East, but nothing to worry about.

2. If the prosecution were dropped, on the other hand, the reaction would be worse. It would play into Moscow's hands, make it appear the big oil companies were dictating U. S. policy.

Small-Business Champion

New Hampshire's perennial Sen. Charles Tobey, who though 72 years old is one of the most vigorous members of the Senate, has got Ike-advisers a bit worried about small business and the Federal Trade Commission.

Tobey, a stalwart champion of little business, is also the champion of Federal Trade Commissioner John Carson, a Truman holdover.

Carson was reappointed to the trade commission shortly before Truman left the White House, and Republicans expected to knock him out of the job almost immediately. However, it has developed that Carson is not only a protege of Tobey's but also has other friends on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

An independent Republican, Commissioner Carson is the former secretary of Republican Sen. Jim Couzens of Michigan.

Tidelands Dinner

It was hushed up at the time, but Texas' ex-speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, also of Texas, staged a private dinner for President Truman just before he left office in an effort to persuade him to keep hands off the tidelands oil.

The dinner was held in Sam Rayburn's private apartment at the Anchorage and featured chili con carne—Texas style. Truman is fond of chili and after he had enjoyed several large helpings Johnson and Rayburn were about to open up the ticklish question of tidelands oil.

The wanted to persuade the President to leave these oil reserves under the Interior Department rather than transfer them to the Navy, which they feared would make it embarrassing for Eisenhower to transfer them back.

However, Truman, perhaps sensing that Rayburn and Johnson had a lobbying move up their sleeves, suddenly got up, announced that he would have to leave.

Quickly and with no chance for finesse, Rayburn asked point-blank whether Truman intended to go ahead and transfer the tidelands to the Navy.

"I've already done it," replied Truman. Then he gave a brief dissertation on what these oil reserves meant to other parts of the nation, pointing out, for instance, that North Dakota would be able to get $6,000,000 for its schools if tidelands oil is kept for all of the 48 states.

Rayburn and Johnson groaned.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

On Crime

I am not a reporter of crime and usually the subject bores me except on such a radio show as "Dragnet," which I hear when I am permitted to stay home.

So I approach the problem of the New York City waterfront as a reader rather than a columnist.

Some questions arise which, it seems to me, need answering. They have not been answered in the news yet.

For instance, as I read the testimony of the crime investigation in New York, it looked as though the evidence were reaching the conclusion that one Thomas Luchese, better known as Three-Finger Brown, was being shown to have closer relations with the mayor, the federal prosecutor's office, certain federal judges and other officials than his occupation and status would warrant. In fact, as I read the news, it was indicated that when a narcotics tip-off took place, the squealer got killed and yet the information could not have leaked except officially.

So what was done about it? Nothing! I see no examination of that highly significant bit of evidence that a squealer provided information to an official who relayed it to another official and the squealer got killed. Certainly that should have been investigated to get at the facts.

The Luschese investigation was dropped suddenly and just when it was getting good. One story about town is that Luchese has always been bipartisan, showing a most undiscriminating and tolerant attitude, particularly toward the judges. It was shown that this Luchese mixed in the best Republican and Democratic society. But why was the investigation dropped?

Further, I would like it explained how it is that while the waterfront has been a cesspool of crime, corruption, labor union racketeering, theft, pilfering, for so many years that shippers are fleeing this port, so little has been done by the ordinary agencies of law enforcement over the years.

For instance, Thomas E. Dewey is supposed to be a gang-buster. How come that as district attorney and governor of the state, he has never busted these waterfront gangs? The material that has been coming out in the evidence shows that this waterfront has been a criminal sanctuary. Who made it a sanctuary? What have the police done? The district attorney's office? The state industrial commissioner's office? These are the people who need to be investigated to find out why they have permitted such horrible conditions to come into existence.

There is some evidence that racketeering has moved back into the garment industry, where it originated under the gentle management of Sidney Hillman and the torpedoes, Lepke and Gurrah. It was assumed that the investigation was going to move into that type of racketeering which has had its accompaniment of murder. But that investigation withered on the vine. It would seem that we are close to a mayoralty campaign and that an enforsement by the Liberal party is a valuable gift for any politician. It is hard to believe that about some politicians, but if they fail to bring out the facts and they do get the Liberal party endorsement, we shall know that they have been conniving even if we can never prove it.

The testimony has already established that the murderers, thieves, racketeers and other criminals who operate on the waterfront could not have even got started without the agreement and consent of public officials and businessmen. The testimony of the shippers and other businessmen before the State Crime Commission was disagreeable reading because it showed that several of the leading ones were poltroons and fools, with a penchant for making money but with the morals of a mangy alley cat.

However, I note that few politicians have been called and I suspect that it may be merciful, because from the leads in the evidence, some very big heads in this great city would prefer to be six feet underground rather than to have to admit not only complicity but hyprocrisy.

Just as a reader, not as an expert in crime, I cannot fail to reach the conclusion that there must be a kind of trade unionism among officials based on the slogan: "If you won't expose me, I won't expose you." Besides, what's really at stake? The lives of some bums, a little graft which is less than the ECA spends on teaching the Swiss how to yodel, and maybe the future of New York.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — John Foster Dulles, the new Secretary of State, is going to Europe not a moment too soon.

For the tragic fact is that, despite the sugar-coating of high-sounding diplomatic phraseology in recent months about Allied solidarity, there is no effective alliance in existence today as between the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.

All the talks about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its growing pains, and all the discussion about the European defense community do not erase the sad truth that the European allies give the impression they really intend to go their "separate ways," precisely as Mr. Dulles phrased it in his warning speech last Tuesday.

The faliure of the European defense pact to be ratified and the failure of Britain and the United States to see eye-to-eye on Far Eastern policy have resulted in such a breakdown among the Allies themselves that the Secretary of State is setting off for Europe even before he has a chance to organize his own personnel situation in the Department of State. For he knows that the problems abroad are critical.

Stronger Alliance Needed

What the Europeans, and particularly the British, don't seem to understand is that there really has been a change of administration here. Even some Washington observers who are thoroughly imbued with the policies of stagnation of the previous administration do not understand what has happened, and they look askance at the Dulles' speech of last Tuesday and ask for a blueprint to tell them in detail how a "cold war" can be won. They still echo the artificially stimulated fears of European foreign offices that a "war of liberation" to help the peoples under the Russian yoke in the satellite countries or a bigger propaganda drive are about the only instrumentalities left for the Eisenhower-Dulles administration to follow.

But the situation really stands out clearly. Stalin, like Hitler, sees the free world broken up instead of firmly allied in the "cold war." The so-called alliance in the free world, whether it be through NATO or the special pacts for a European defense army, isn't worth the paper it is written on today. Until a new and stronger alliance is built, Stalin will continue to win in the "cold war." There is no use thinking of applying moral force to persuade allies behind the iron curtain when moral force isn't having the slightest effect on this side of the iron curtain among the free peoples supposedly bound together by an alliance.

Some idea of the weakness of the alliance of the free nations can be gained by looking at the behavior of Britain and other countries in still sending strategic materials to the countries behind the iron curtain at a time when American boys are being killed and wounded by Communist-supplied armies in Korea. To Britain, the affair in Korea apparently is a matter of "collective security" in theory only. It doesn't seem to apply to sacrifices of pounds sterling for its merchants and traders.

No better illustration of this sentiment could be given than is to be found in the remarkably frank article in the Saturday Evening Post's January 24 issue by E. L. Hauser, who writes from London as follows:

"Moral scruples? This fall, when a London purchasing agent for the Peking government (Red China) sent form letters to over 1,000 British firms asking whether they would like to be in on the China business, only nine replied they did not favor the idea. And at a social gathering of Britain's most prominent motorcar manufacturers the other night, a wistful chorus could be heard: 'The China market! The tractors and the trucks we could sell!' The implication was all too obvious. 'If only Uncle Sam would let us!'"

Britain Sells To Reds

On top of this comes the British Board of Trade survey the other day which shows that Britain exported $140,000,000 worth of rubber and other goods to the Communist world last year, and, of this total, rubber alone accounted for about $98,000,000 of Britain's total sales. Rubber is a strategic item. It can be used in military supply vehicles like trucks and in airplanes. It has countless other military uses. Russia needs rubber badly.

Now, entirely apart from Britain's own trade, Ceylon, a member of the British family of nations, has just concluded an agreement to sell 50,000 tons of rubber a year to Red China for the next five years.

The recent report of Averell Harriman to Congress shows that an attempt to blackmail America was first made by Ceylon, which demanded a $50,000,000-a-year aid program and refused to sell the rubber to the Allies at world market prices unless this was granted.

Ceylon isn't a member of the UN but has trade ties with Britain that could be used to bring it into line. As it is, the Ceylon incident is no different from the trade being carried on by Britain herself with iron curtain countries. Mr. Harriman made this significant recommendation:

"The solution of Ceylon's new relationship with Communist China must remain a matter of critical concern to the United States. Controls over shipping and the fueling of vessels calling at free world ports may provide one salutary course of action."

This is a form of blockade. It would provide a realistic solution. Ceylon cannot send the rubber to Red China except by seagoing vessels. It is in the interest of the American boys dying in Korea that trade to Red China in strategic materials be stopped by one means or another.

These are some of the problems that face Secretary Dulles—how to convince our own allies that we are really allied in Korea, too. The secretary might tell the European statesmen, incidentally, that, so far as the American people are concerned, there is no more reason for American boys to die in Korea than to die in Europe, and that the converse is true — the American people will not go it alone in the Far East and will not go it alone in Europe.

Sooner or later an isolationist political sentiment may develop in both the Republican and Democratic parties to urge that the U. S. get out and stay out of both Asia and Europe altogether if the other nations of the free world are really not interested in a firm alliance. Each nation in a true alliance must exhibit the utmost fidelity instead of trying to retain commercial advantages while blood is being spilled supposedly for the cause of "collective security."

That's the essence of the Dulles mission to Europe. It is a good sign that Europeans already are being shaken out of their complacency by the Dulles speech. They will not like what the secretary will tell them. But that's the objective of his trip—namely, to build a firm alliance and present Stalin with a stronger free world combination than we have had heretofore. It's the way to avoid World War III.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON—One of the first problems facing the Eisenhower administration is what to do about the Defense Production Act. This law contains not only authority for price-wage controls, but allocation of scarce materials to assure sufficient supplies for defense needs.

The price control authority expires on April 30, and the rest of the act goes out June 30. It will be up to the new President to decide in what form, if any, to continue the measure.

Truman administration officials left warnings behind. They said that if price-wage controls are allowed to lapse materials which affect the defense program will bound upward in price, and that the increase will be at least $3 billion a year. They also said it would be a major mistake to lift all curbs on scarce materials at this time.

Republican leaders in Congress are reported to be awaiting word from President Eisenhower as to what course to follow on the act. They are under heavy pressure from many industries to let controls expire.

One important note is this: The forms on which industries will apply for scarce materials for the third quarter of 1953 will have to be ready by February 1. A decision on controls over scarce materials will have to be made before the forms can be written.

Many concerns are reported to be negotiating contracts involving higher prices on the assumption that controls will die April 30.

Not That Deep

George F. Kennan's criticism of the "liberation" policy espoused by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave rise to reports of a "deep split" among State Department planners. It was a split, of course, but not a very deep one.

Dulles has called for an American policy that will encourage peoples behind the iron curtain to seek their own liberation. Kennan, ousted ambassador to Russia, made a speech in Pennsylvania warning that such a policy might be too dangerous.

Since Kennan is one of the nation's outstanding foreign policy experts, he had been counted upon to take an important place in the Eisenhower administration's diplomatic corps. When he first spoke out against Dulles' plan, it seemed as though the new secretary of State might have to place him in a minor role.

However, while Dulles does expect his top men to go along with him on policy, he realizes that Kennan cannot be shunted aside on this matter.

It is probable that the former ambassador to Moscow will soon be found in another highly important diplamatic post—Cairo, Egypt, where liberation is not the problem, but communism is.

Matching Dollars

The dollar-wise Republican 83rd Congress has met its match in the "money conscious" armed services.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg bowed out as military manpower chief under the Truman administration with the contention that the military has bent over backward to cut corners.

In her final report, Mrs. Rosenberg said that men in the service are expecting a sort of mutual exchange of good deeds. She stated that long-term enlistees and military career men—on whom the armed forces depend for continuity of service—are, to put it bluntly, disgruntled.

Mrs. Rosenberg told legislators it is all very well for them to weed out what she called "plushiness" in facilities for servicemen—that it is penny wise and pound foolish to skimp so that mess halls, barracks, service clubs and the like are not adequate.

Moreover, she stated that many men in uniform are unhappy because military pay has not kept up with the rising cost of living.

State-Of-The-Union

When President Eisenhower goes before Congress on Monday, it will be the first time that the State-of-the-Union message has been delivered by a chief executive who has newly assumed the Presidency.

Until the 20th Amendment became effective in October 1933, the message had come in December of every year. A newly elected President would have been inaugurated in the preceding March, nine months before the delivery of his first State-of-the-Union message.

In and after 1934, when F. D. Roosevelt had been President for ten months, the annual sessions of Congress began in January, which became the month for State-of-the-Union messages. The first of Truman was delivered in January 1946 when he had been in the White House for nine months.

Styles change in the State-of-the-Union message. Even the term has changed; it used to be the "annual message." The phrase was a misnomer; the Constitution prescribes "information of the State of the Union from time to time"—which could be more or less often than once a year.

The first 12 State-of-the-Union messages were delivered in person. Jefferson, who disliked speaking in public, sent in his first message in writing, and his example was followed by the next 24 Presidents.

It was Woodrow Wilson, polished and effective orator, who resurrected the practice of speaking the message in person. This meant it had to be much shorter—the annual messages sent by T. Roosevelt and Taft had taken hours when declaimed by the reading clerks of Congress. The first State-of-the-Union message of Wilson was one-ninth as long as the last of Taft.

Also, Wilson believed in hitting only the high spots in this message, leaving other specific problems for special messages devoted to them. Before Wilson, the State-of-the-Union message had been apt to cover everything under the sun—with the first part handling foreign relations whether or not these happened to be pressing at the time.

After the budget system was adopted in 1921, financial and tax problems could be left, at least in detail, to the annual budget message. That also made for shorter State-of-the-Union messages.

When the first President appeared before the first Congress in joint session, he directed a part of his message to the House alone. This was because that part dealt with revenues, and the House was charged under the Constitution with originating revenue bills.

Then each branch of Congress sent Washington a message acknowledging his message, and to each he sent an acknowledgement of its acknowledgement. This Alphonse-and-Gaston business was ended under Jefferson.

Theodore Roosevelt in 1901-09 breathed new life into the old bones. He believed that legislative programs had to be formulated by the President rather than by Congress alone, and his State-of-the-Union messages were designed to strengthen popular support for "my policies." They were eloquent lay sermons reflecting a vibrant personality. Ike's may be the same.

Buying "Hot" Tin

U. S. government will soon be buying "hot" tin. Bolivia has proclaimed the nationalization of her tin mines, but is unwilling to pay compensation to former owners. The new regime of President Paz Estenssoro doesn't put it that way: it says it will pay for the mines after the companies have paid several times as much in alleged taxes and penalties.

But the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, sole U. S. buyer and seller of tin, has just signed a contract for 5,000 tons of Bolivian tin at $1.17½ cents a pound, f. o. b. South America.

This seems like a dubious course to follow, especially as Americans own a great deal of the stock of the seized mines. But there are several complicating factors. It is the RFC's job to see that the United States gets enough tin for national security stockpiles, and gets it at a fair price.

The RFC has been negotiating with Bolivia for more than a year—or refusing to buy because negotiations had broken down. Now that the price is considered about right, it has contracted for only 5,000 tons, compared to the 54,000 tons which it agreed to buy at $1.18 from Indonesia over a three-year period.

Before the Korean War tin was selling for 75 cents a pound. The United States, caught with its stockpiles down, started buying. The Belgian-Dutch-British-Bolivian tin cartel, the RFC charged, deliberately reduced output by 30 per cent and forced prices above $2 a pound. The situation became so fantastic that the RFC suspended buying entirely in July 1951 to await lower prices.

But Bolivia still demanded more than the world price. In October 1951, when the RFC was bidding $1.12, Bolivia was asking $1.50 and angrily charging that American tin price policies would shove her into "economic, political and social changes."

Politics being what it is in Latin America, this prediction may have been a safe one. It came true, anyway. Bolivia had another revolution, establishing a government of very dubious character.

Italian Sea Queen

Arrival at New York of the steamship Andrea Doria, new queen of the Italian merchant marine, coincides with publication of statistics at London showing the maritime recuperation of the three vanquished Axis powers of World War II, now allies of the United States.

These three powers set the pace in building merchant ships in 1952, according to a report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping. The seafaring Japanese led in the launching of 605,000 tons of new ships, raising Japan's postwar fleet to 2,787,000 tons. The Italians were the next fastest to recover—372,000 tons built in 1952 for a total merchant fleet of 3,289,000 tons. The Germans were third with 367,000 tons for a total of 1,398,000.

In both cargo ships and tankers the Soviet Union's postwar construction has been small—a mere 39,000 tons in 1951, the latest figure available. Russia's entire merchant fleet is listed at 2,261,000 tons. The United States dominates the seas with a total of 27,245,000 tons.

The Italian merchant marine has a long and honorable tradition upon the seas of the world. The Andrea Doria, making her debut in New York harbor, is a 30,000-ton passenger ship luxurious in appointments, fast in speed, decorated with magnificent proofs of the skill of Italian artists and craftsmen. She is a welcome evidence of Italian economic recuperation, to which American aid has contributed so greatly.

How To Keep Well

Eczema In Babies

Infantile eczema is an annoying disease not only to children but to parents and physicians. In more than half the cases the cause of this allergic disturbance is traceable to something the youngster is eating. Most victims are bottle-fed or receive supplemental feedings.

The eruption prefers the flushing areas of the cheeks. From here the outbreak spreads to the forehead, ears, neck, behind the ears, and to the creases of the elbows. The skin is reddened at first, followed by water blisters that rupture, ooze, and dry into crusts. The lesions usually are distorted by the youngster, who scratches and rubs to ease itching. To complicate the picture for the physician the appearance of the eruption is changed almost beyond recognition when parents use salves, ointments, or other home remedies.

Covering the skin with any of the preparations recommended for the treatment of eczema is only a small part of the cure. These substances vary from crude coal tar ointment to calamine lotion and are useful in minimizing irritation and keeping the disorder from spreading. But it is more important to find and eradicate the cause. Detection of the culprit may be possible through skin tests but this method is successful in only half the cases; for the remainder, the old trial and error method is needed.

The usual offenders are milk, eggs, wheat, potato, tomato, and orange. These foods must be eliminated from the diet one at a time and between each change the effect is noted. When the allergen is not discovered in this way it may be that the rules of the game are not understood thoroughly. A child who is sensitive to milk, for example, may be getting bread and crackers containing milk. Those who are sensitive to corn should not be given corn flakes or other substances prepared with this vegetable. Rye bread is loaded with wheat and let us not forget that lanolin is taboo for youngsters who are sensitive to wool. These points are mentioned to stress the need for becoming thoroughly acquainted with the ingredients of prepared and other substances.

What about the bottlefed baby who is sensitive to cow's milk? There are substitutes including goat's milk and soybean products. Now and then evaporated milk is tolerated whereas ordinary pasteurized milk from the dairy is not. Mother must be careful about her diet when her nursing infant has eczema because the offending agents may be transmitted through the milk ducts.

There are hundreds of other precautions to be considered when the rash does not disappear completely. Weight loss may help some because eczema thrives on chubby youngsters. A deliberate attempt should be made to keep the little one from scratching or irritating the lesions. Heavy cardboard cuffs at the elbows will prevent bending of the arms and occasionally other restraints are necessary. It is a good policy to keep the finger nails clean and well trimmed. The more ingenious child may rub his face against the sheets. Should this occur, ask the physician for an old X-ray film or buy some plastic material that can be fastened to the mattress with adhesive tape under the spot occupied by the baby's head.

EGG PARTS

Mrs. T. writes: What is the best part of the egg, the white or the yellow?

REPLY

From the nutritional standpoint, the yellow contains more food elements, particularly fat. The white has approximately the same amount of proteins and minerals as the yolk.

REMOVAL OF ADRENALS

G. V. writes: I have heard that removal of the adrenal glands is a cure for cancer. Is this true?

REPLY

No. The procedure has been advocated in far advanced cancers to relieve pain.

DOUBLE HERNIA

F. Y. writes: What is a bilateral inguinal hernia?

REPLY

This term refers to a hernia in each groin caused by inherent weakness of the abdominal wall in this area.

GRAY TEEN-AGERS

E. F. writes: My sister is 18 and I'm 14 and we both discovered a few gray hairs. I don't think this is hereditary because our mother is 50 and doesn't have gray hair. Could you help us?

REPLY

How about your dad? Even though you and your sister found a few stray gray hairs, this does not mean that the depigmentation will proceed rapidly. Remember that God gives us these few gray hairs to remind old and young that time is passing.

COLD AND COUGH

Mrs. F. writes: Why do iced drinks induce coughing?

REPLY

Because cold irritates the back of the throat and stimulates the cough reflex. But this is an uncommon reaction as most of us are able to drink ice cold liquids without being bothered in this way.

Gen. Collins Tackles Problem Of South Korean Army; CIA Approves Action Against Oil Companies; Hot Chili Leaves Truman Cold On Tidelands

WASHINGTON — Real story behind Army Chief of Staff J. Lawton Collins' rush trip to Korea is that it was to straighten out bickering over the South Korean army.

Conflicting reports have been sent to the Pentagon as to how big a role the South Korean army can play. Gen. James Van Fleet, outgoing Eighth Army commander, has been optimistic about turning the fighting over to the South Koreans. However, his boss in the Far East, Gen. Mark Clark, has been pessimistic.

To make matters worse, the American training mission has demanded seasoned South Korean officers to help speed the training of green, new troops. This would take South Koreans away from the front, and the battle commanders warn that the South Korean army is short of good officers, that they can't be spared from the front.

The whole problem was dumped in President Eisenhower's lap by General Collins just one day after the President took office. After listening carefully to Collins, however, Eisenhower ordered him to take off for Korea immediately and come up with a detailed plan on exactly how large the South Korean army can be built and how long it will take.

Oil Predicament

The National Security Council is so red-faced it won't breathe a word about it, but Central Intelligence has submitted a report indicating that the prosecution of the five U. S. oil companies in the Near East should not be dropped. Its report is exactly the opposite of the plea made by ex-Secretary of Defense Lovett for dropping prosecution.

Lovett had stirred up President Truman and other cabinet members by arguing that the Justice Department's criminal case against the oil companies would play into Russia's hands, would cause American companies to lose their Near Eastern concessions. He based this partly on a Central Intelligence report of last spring.

Recently, however, Central Intelligence submitted a new report. It stated that its survey of last spring was in error. Reaction to the government's prosecution of the oil companies, CIA stated, had not been bad.

The report made two other significant points:

1. If the case against the oil companies is prosecuted, there will be some reaction in the Near East, but nothing to worry about.

2. If the prosecution were dropped, on the other hand, the reaction would be worse. It would play into Moscow's hands, make it appear the big oil companies were dictating U. S. policy.

Small-Business Champion

New Hampshire's perennial Sen. Charles Tobey, who though 72 years old is one of the most vigorous members of the Senate, has got Ike-advisers a bit worried about small business and the Federal Trade Commission.

Tobey, a stalwart champion of little business, is also the champion of Federal Trade Commissioner John Carson, a Truman holdover.

Carson was reappointed to the trade commission shortly before Truman left the White House, and Republicans expected to knock him out of the job almost immediately. However, it has developed that Carson is not only a protege of Tobey's but also has other friends on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

An independent Republican, Commissioner Carson is the former secretary of Republican Sen. Jim Couzens of Michigan.

Tidelands Dinner

It was hushed up at the time, but Texas' ex-speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, also of Texas, staged a private dinner for President Truman just before he left office in an effort to persuade him to keep hands off the tidelands oil.

The dinner was held in Sam Rayburn's private apartment at the Anchorage and featured chili con carne—Texas style. Truman is fond of chili and after he had enjoyed several large helpings Johnson and Rayburn were about to open up the ticklish question of tidelands oil.

The wanted to persuade the President to leave these oil reserves under the Interior Department rather than transfer them to the Navy, which they feared would make it embarrassing for Eisenhower to transfer them back.

However, Truman, perhaps sensing that Rayburn and Johnson had a lobbying move up their sleeves, suddenly got up, announced that he would have to leave.

Quickly and with no chance for finesse, Rayburn asked point-blank whether Truman intended to go ahead and transfer the tidelands to the Navy.

"I've already done it," replied Truman. Then he gave a brief dissertation on what these oil reserves meant to other parts of the nation, pointing out, for instance, that North Dakota would be able to get $6,000,000 for its schools if tidelands oil is kept for all of the 48 states.

Rayburn and Johnson groaned.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

On Crime

I am not a reporter of crime and usually the subject bores me except on such a radio show as "Dragnet," which I hear when I am permitted to stay home.

So I approach the problem of the New York City waterfront as a reader rather than a columnist.

Some questions arise which, it seems to me, need answering. They have not been answered in the news yet.

For instance, as I read the testimony of the crime investigation in New York, it looked as though the evidence were reaching the conclusion that one Thomas Luchese, better known as Three-Finger Brown, was being shown to have closer relations with the mayor, the federal prosecutor's office, certain federal judges and other officials than his occupation and status would warrant. In fact, as I read the news, it was indicated that when a narcotics tip-off took place, the squealer got killed and yet the information could not have leaked except officially.

So what was done about it? Nothing! I see no examination of that highly significant bit of evidence that a squealer provided information to an official who relayed it to another official and the squealer got killed. Certainly that should have been investigated to get at the facts.

The Luschese investigation was dropped suddenly and just when it was getting good. One story about town is that Luchese has always been bipartisan, showing a most undiscriminating and tolerant attitude, particularly toward the judges. It was shown that this Luchese mixed in the best Republican and Democratic society. But why was the investigation dropped?

Further, I would like it explained how it is that while the waterfront has been a cesspool of crime, corruption, labor union racketeering, theft, pilfering, for so many years that shippers are fleeing this port, so little has been done by the ordinary agencies of law enforcement over the years.

For instance, Thomas E. Dewey is supposed to be a gang-buster. How come that as district attorney and governor of the state, he has never busted these waterfront gangs? The material that has been coming out in the evidence shows that this waterfront has been a criminal sanctuary. Who made it a sanctuary? What have the police done? The district attorney's office? The state industrial commissioner's office? These are the people who need to be investigated to find out why they have permitted such horrible conditions to come into existence.

There is some evidence that racketeering has moved back into the garment industry, where it originated under the gentle management of Sidney Hillman and the torpedoes, Lepke and Gurrah. It was assumed that the investigation was going to move into that type of racketeering which has had its accompaniment of murder. But that investigation withered on the vine. It would seem that we are close to a mayoralty campaign and that an enforsement by the Liberal party is a valuable gift for any politician. It is hard to believe that about some politicians, but if they fail to bring out the facts and they do get the Liberal party endorsement, we shall know that they have been conniving even if we can never prove it.

The testimony has already established that the murderers, thieves, racketeers and other criminals who operate on the waterfront could not have even got started without the agreement and consent of public officials and businessmen. The testimony of the shippers and other businessmen before the State Crime Commission was disagreeable reading because it showed that several of the leading ones were poltroons and fools, with a penchant for making money but with the morals of a mangy alley cat.

However, I note that few politicians have been called and I suspect that it may be merciful, because from the leads in the evidence, some very big heads in this great city would prefer to be six feet underground rather than to have to admit not only complicity but hyprocrisy.

Just as a reader, not as an expert in crime, I cannot fail to reach the conclusion that there must be a kind of trade unionism among officials based on the slogan: "If you won't expose me, I won't expose you." Besides, what's really at stake? The lives of some bums, a little graft which is less than the ECA spends on teaching the Swiss how to yodel, and maybe the future of New York.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — John Foster Dulles, the new Secretary of State, is going to Europe not a moment too soon.

For the tragic fact is that, despite the sugar-coating of high-sounding diplomatic phraseology in recent months about Allied solidarity, there is no effective alliance in existence today as between the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.

All the talks about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its growing pains, and all the discussion about the European defense community do not erase the sad truth that the European allies give the impression they really intend to go their "separate ways," precisely as Mr. Dulles phrased it in his warning speech last Tuesday.

The faliure of the European defense pact to be ratified and the failure of Britain and the United States to see eye-to-eye on Far Eastern policy have resulted in such a breakdown among the Allies themselves that the Secretary of State is setting off for Europe even before he has a chance to organize his own personnel situation in the Department of State. For he knows that the problems abroad are critical.

Stronger Alliance Needed

What the Europeans, and particularly the British, don't seem to understand is that there really has been a change of administration here. Even some Washington observers who are thoroughly imbued with the policies of stagnation of the previous administration do not understand what has happened, and they look askance at the Dulles' speech of last Tuesday and ask for a blueprint to tell them in detail how a "cold war" can be won. They still echo the artificially stimulated fears of European foreign offices that a "war of liberation" to help the peoples under the Russian yoke in the satellite countries or a bigger propaganda drive are about the only instrumentalities left for the Eisenhower-Dulles administration to follow.

But the situation really stands out clearly. Stalin, like Hitler, sees the free world broken up instead of firmly allied in the "cold war." The so-called alliance in the free world, whether it be through NATO or the special pacts for a European defense army, isn't worth the paper it is written on today. Until a new and stronger alliance is built, Stalin will continue to win in the "cold war." There is no use thinking of applying moral force to persuade allies behind the iron curtain when moral force isn't having the slightest effect on this side of the iron curtain among the free peoples supposedly bound together by an alliance.

Some idea of the weakness of the alliance of the free nations can be gained by looking at the behavior of Britain and other countries in still sending strategic materials to the countries behind the iron curtain at a time when American boys are being killed and wounded by Communist-supplied armies in Korea. To Britain, the affair in Korea apparently is a matter of "collective security" in theory only. It doesn't seem to apply to sacrifices of pounds sterling for its merchants and traders.

No better illustration of this sentiment could be given than is to be found in the remarkably frank article in the Saturday Evening Post's January 24 issue by E. L. Hauser, who writes from London as follows:

"Moral scruples? This fall, when a London purchasing agent for the Peking government (Red China) sent form letters to over 1,000 British firms asking whether they would like to be in on the China business, only nine replied they did not favor the idea. And at a social gathering of Britain's most prominent motorcar manufacturers the other night, a wistful chorus could be heard: 'The China market! The tractors and the trucks we could sell!' The implication was all too obvious. 'If only Uncle Sam would let us!'"

Britain Sells To Reds

On top of this comes the British Board of Trade survey the other day which shows that Britain exported $140,000,000 worth of rubber and other goods to the Communist world last year, and, of this total, rubber alone accounted for about $98,000,000 of Britain's total sales. Rubber is a strategic item. It can be used in military supply vehicles like trucks and in airplanes. It has countless other military uses. Russia needs rubber badly.

Now, entirely apart from Britain's own trade, Ceylon, a member of the British family of nations, has just concluded an agreement to sell 50,000 tons of rubber a year to Red China for the next five years.

The recent report of Averell Harriman to Congress shows that an attempt to blackmail America was first made by Ceylon, which demanded a $50,000,000-a-year aid program and refused to sell the rubber to the Allies at world market prices unless this was granted.

Ceylon isn't a member of the UN but has trade ties with Britain that could be used to bring it into line. As it is, the Ceylon incident is no different from the trade being carried on by Britain herself with iron curtain countries. Mr. Harriman made this significant recommendation:

"The solution of Ceylon's new relationship with Communist China must remain a matter of critical concern to the United States. Controls over shipping and the fueling of vessels calling at free world ports may provide one salutary course of action."

This is a form of blockade. It would provide a realistic solution. Ceylon cannot send the rubber to Red China except by seagoing vessels. It is in the interest of the American boys dying in Korea that trade to Red China in strategic materials be stopped by one means or another.

These are some of the problems that face Secretary Dulles--how to convince our own allies that we are really allied in Korea, too. The secretary might tell the European statesmen, incidentally, that, so far as the American people are concerned, there is no more reason for American boys to die in Korea than to die in Europe, and that the converse is true — the American people will not go it alone in the Far East and will not go it alone in Europe.

Sooner or later an isolationist political sentiment may develop in both the Republican and Democratic parties to urge that the U. S. get out and stay out of both Asia and Europe altogether if the other nations of the free world are really not interested in a firm alliance. Each nation in a true alliance must exhibit the utmost fidelity instead of trying to retain commercial advantages while blood is being spilled supposedly for the cause of "collective security."

That's the essence of the Dulles mission to Europe. It is a good sign that Europeans already are being shaken out of their complacency by the Dulles speech. They will not like what the secretary will tell them. But that's the objective of his trip—namely, to build a firm alliance and present Stalin with a stronger free world combination than we have had heretofore. It's the way to avoid World War III.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON—One of the first problems facing the Eisenhower administration is what to do about the Defense Production Act. This law contains not only authority for price-wage controls, but allocation of scarce materials to assure sufficient supplies for defense needs.

The price control authority expires on April 30, and the rest of the act goes out June 30. It will be up to the new President to decide in what form, if any, to continue the measure.

Truman administration officials left warnings behind. They said that if price-wage controls are allowed to lapse materials which affect the defense program will bound upward in price, and that the increase will be at least $3 billion a year. They also said it would be a major mistake to lift all curbs on scarce materials at this time.

Republican leaders in Congress are reported to be awaiting word from President Eisenhower as to what course to follow on the act. They are under heavy pressure from many industries to let controls expire.

One important note is this: The forms on which industries will apply for scarce materials for the third quarter of 1953 will have to be ready by February 1. A decision on controls over scarce materials will have to be made before the forms can be written.

Many concerns are reported to be negotiating contracts involving higher prices on the assumption that controls will die April 30.

Not That Deep

George F. Kennan's criticism of the "liberation" policy espoused by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave rise to reports of a "deep split" among State Department planners. It was a split, of course, but not a very deep one.

Dulles has called for an American policy that will encourage peoples behind the iron curtain to seek their own liberation. Kennan, ousted ambassador to Russia, made a speech in Pennsylvania warning that such a policy might be too dangerous.

Since Kennan is one of the nation's outstanding foreign policy experts, he had been counted upon to take an important place in the Eisenhower administration's diplomatic corps. When he first spoke out against Dulles' plan, it seemed as though the new secretary of State might have to place him in a minor role.

However, while Dulles does expect his top men to go along with him on policy, he realizes that Kennan cannot be shunted aside on this matter.

It is probable that the former ambassador to Moscow will soon be found in another highly important diplamatic post—Cairo, Egypt, where liberation is not the problem, but communism is.

Matching Dollars

The dollar-wise Republican 83rd Congress has met its match in the "money conscious" armed services.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg bowed out as military manpower chief under the Truman administration with the contention that the military has bent over backward to cut corners.

In her final report, Mrs. Rosenberg said that men in the service are expecting a sort of mutual exchange of good deeds. She stated that long-term enlistees and military career men—on whom the armed forces depend for continuity of service—are, to put it bluntly, disgruntled.

Mrs. Rosenberg told legislators it is all very well for them to weed out what she called "plushiness" in facilities for servicemen—that it is penny wise and pound foolish to skimp so that mess halls, barracks, service clubs and the like are not adequate.

Moreover, she stated that many men in uniform are unhappy because military pay has not kept up with the rising cost of living.

Legion Post Pushes Membership Drive

J. F. Challinor, first vice-commander and membership chairman of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, reports that the post is now pushing its membership campaign which has as its goal 1,500 members.

The campaign closes February 28, four weeks from today. Captains of the rival teams are Howard M. Spiker and Paul C. Weisenmiller, Sr. The winning team will eat ham and the losers will be served beans, according to Challinor.

At the present time over 80 per cent of last year's members have renewed their memberships, the chairman explained. In addition, 42 new members have been added and 31 former members have been reinstated.

Powers said the collision occurred at 8:30 p. m. Thursday as Peer, driving east on East Street, collided with a car being driven south on South Street by Crowe. No one was injured, but damage was estimated at $200 to each vehicle.

UNGUARDED HONORS WIN

THOSE who value their cards by the traditional honor-trick and quick-trick tables are accustomed to thinking of unguarded kings and queens as worth very little. On the other extreme, most followers of the point-count methods have a tendency toward giving a singleton king or a once-guarded or not-guarded queen about the same rating as if the card had smaller ones of the suit accompanying it. Plain common sense tells anyone that between these lies the sound ground. Unguarded honors of secondary size frequently win tricks, especially when opposite them are other honors of the same suit.

1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♥
2 ♠	3 ♥	4 ♣	Pass

4 ♠	Dbl.	5 ♣	Dbl.

North, not a very experienced player, who had learned to value his hands by the 4-3-2-1 count method, found by assigning 3 to each king that he had 12 in honors, plus about three more for his great spade length, giving him what he considered a great enough total for a sound opening bid. More experienced users of that rating plan would have deducted something for the lack of guards to the heart and club kings.

Later on, when a lively auction had developed, North began to get fearful, especially when his partner doubled the opponents' 4-Hearts. North dreaded now his lack of guards and had visions of his kings falling under hostile aces. If he had stood pat, he would have found that both of the unprotected kings had taken on high rank because of the cards opposite them.

But what was he to do? Feeling that his opening had got the side into trouble, and that the opponents would make their doubled contract because his hand couldn't do its share of the work, he took the double out to spades, and South, equally panicky, shifted then to the 5-Clubs. It was down three tricks, whereas the 4-Hearts could have been beaten.

Holy Cross Episcopal.—16 Virginia Avenue, Rev. Louis H. Ewald, rector.—8 a. m., Holy Communion; 9:45 a. m., church school; 11 a. m., Holy Communion and sermon.

Nancy's not afraid of policemen. You can tell that by her open expression of friendliness as she looks up at the officer helping her across the street.

In some countries the law is not so kind. It is not used, as in America to protect the individual. It is not made for the masses, but for the few to do with as they please.

In our great land you'll see policemen at nearly every city school, not to correct, but to protect your children at the street crossings.

That is because our country and its laws have been founded on Christianity.

Support your church and give your children continued protection and the freedom to live, learn, and worship as they please.

Allegany Beats LaSalle, 50-46; Bruce Edges Piedmont, 51-50

Campers Win 8th Straight In City Game

Explorers Eliminated From Title Race; Over 1,200 Witness Contest

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A fighting underdog LaSalle High quint gave Allegany's Campers the scare of their lives last night before bowing to Coach Walter L. Bowers' cagers, 50-46, in a hammer-and-tongs city clash on SS. Peter and Paul court.

An overflow crowd of approximately 1,200 fans jammed the Fayette Street gym to see the return engagement between the two arch city rivals and almost witnessed a repeat of LaSalle's upset over Allegany in their first meeting when the Explorers won 56-51.

Battle All The Way

The Alco quint, battling all the way, controlled the lead throughout most of the game but were rocked momentarily by a spirited surge by LaSalle in the opening moments of the third quarter which wiped out an eight-point Allegany halftime lead.

Trailing 24-16 at intermission LaSalle roared back into contention by dumping in four quick baskets in less than two minutes. Marty Mullaney started the drive for the Explorers with two pivot buckets. Hugh Nolan added a jump shot and Rickey Harris dropped in a set heave. The LaSalle salvo was broken only by Jimmy Hoffman's tip-in basket for AHS. Mullaney again hit on a pivot toss to knot the count at 26-26 with only two minutes gone. LaSalle had made five twin-pointers in only five shots during the rally.

Then showing the reason Allegany is rated tops in the area, the Campers once more asserted themselves. Following tie scores at 28-28 and 31-31 the Bowersmen broke through on a foul toss by Dave Herboldsheimer and a one-hander by Smokey Howe to go ahead to stay.

LaSalle Leads Briefly

LaSalle lead briefly in that hectic third quarter in which both teams tallied 17 points, going ahead 27-26 on Bill Dove's foul shot and again 30-28 on Bobby Christ's one-hander. After Dick Rank and Mullaney traded free throws Herboldshiemer scored on a pivot toss to knot the count for the last time at 31-all before Howe and Herboldsheimer combined to give Alco the lead for the last time.

Jimmy Hoffman, Heroldsheimer and Bob Kirtley added two-pointers for Allegany and the Campers were in front, 41-33, as the third quarter ended.

Allegany increased its margin to 10 points on Kirtley's toss as the fourth period opened and several times held that margin later in the canto before LaSalle once more began to whittle away.

Charley Kienhofer dropped home a one-hander and Harris converted twice at the foul line to cut Allegany's lead to 46-39 before Howe once more hit from outside.

Play Very Rugged

Kienhofer then banged home a goal and Barney Spearman, who converted 7 of 8 tries at the charity stripe, added two one-pointers to narrow the margin to 48-43 with 2:55 to play.

Marty Mullaney then blew two foul shots and Kirtley and Howe added fouls to pull the game out of reach for LaSalle.

Despite a miserable night shooting plus some very ragged play Allegany was able to win its eighth straight and 12th of the season in 14 games. LaSalle dropped its fifth decision in 15 starts and was eliminated from the three-cornered city title race.

Allegany hit only 18 of 72 shots and converted 14 of 31 fouls to tie Fort Hill for the leadership in the city scramble, each having 2-1 marks.

Outstanding for the Campers, who trailed 9-6 at the first quarter, was the play of co-captain Smokey Howe and subs Kirtley and Herboldsheimer. Howe paced the winners with 11 points.

Denny Shuck, Nolan, Harris and Mullaney played good floor games for LaSalle and Mullaney topped the Explorer scorers with 13 markers.

Allegany's Jayvees easily won the preliminary over the LaSalle Jayvees, 58-28. The lineups:

Sentinel Aces Farris, McGregor Out With Flu

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan 30 —Playing without the services of two of their star players, Fort Hill High's Sentinels bowed to Martinsburg High's Bulldogs here tonight by a 46 to 42 score in a close, hard-fought game. Both George McGregor and Jim Farris failed to accompany the Fort Hill team as each was ill with the flu.

The victory for the Bulldogs avenged an early season setback at the hands of Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's quintet in Cumberland, 58-52 in overtime.

Martinsburg opened early and led 9-6 at the quarter but the visitors rallied to grab a 19-18 edge at the half before the Bulldogs once more edged in front 29-27 at the end of the third quarter in the see-saw struggle.

The game was tied four times in the final period, at 29, 30, 32 and 33. Blake's goal broke the final tie and put Martinsburg ahead to stay.

Don Netoskie was the big noise for Martinsburg with three goals and 6-7 fouls for 12 points. John McVicker, sub for Farris, paced the Sentinels with 12 markers.

Harrison finished late in the day to pass Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., whose arm hurt everytime he gripped his club. Harper, the 1950 PGA champ, had 66-66—132, two strokes behind.

Tommy Bolt, the fiery player from Maplewood, N. J., was three strokes back of the leader with 65-68—133.

Lloyd Mangrum, the pre-tourney favorite, improved his position today by shooting a three under par 67 for a total of 139.

Five golfers are in contending positions, four strokes back of Harrison with 134s. They are Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N. C.; Jim Ferrier, San Francisco; John Bulla, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and two comparative newcomers — Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., and Jerry Barber, Lacanda, Calif.

New York Approves DeMarco-Araujo Go

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (INS)—The New York State Athletic Commission approved today a Feb. 20 Madison Square Garden fight between lightweights Paddy De Marco and George Araujo but ordered De Marco to keep a postponed Boston commitment later.

The commission suspended featherweight Pat Marcune, however, after a hearing on a Massachusetts Boxing Commission request that both Marcune and De Marco be drydocked. The two fighters withdrew from Boston bouts because of injuries.

New York Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry said De Marco would be permitted to meet Araujo because the International Boxing Club had filed a contract for the fight before the Boston incident.

Committee To Run St. Louis Cards Until Saigh Can Dispose Of Stock

Veeck Holding Out On Television Rights

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Fred Saigh formally agreed to step out of baseball today, outlining plans for a three-man committee to run his St. Louis Cardinals until he can dispose of the stock.

No deadline was set for sale of the stock, reportedly valued between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. The judge who sentenced Saigh to a 15-month prison term for income tax evasion gave him until May 4 to settle personal affairs before beginning sentence.

Saigh's statement, read after a 90-minute conference of the dapper little man with Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles, said he would name the committee of civic-minded St. Louisians by Feb. 22. His choices will be subject to approval by the commissioner and the National League.

In the meantime, Bill Walsingham, Saigh's vice president, will represent the Cardinals in league meetings while Saigh actually operates the club. Walsingham may very well be the committee's choice to continue as head of the club during its regime.

Groups Interested

A source high in baseball said Saigh's chances of selling were "very good." It was understood two or three different groups already have expressed interest. Walsingham, a nephew of the late Sam Breadon from whom Saigh and the late Bob Hannegan bought the Cards, is definitely interested in buying.

The proposed sale revived the old discussion of franchise moves. Although it would be virtually impossible to move the club in 1953, sale to any non-St. Louis group might result in a shift.

Saigh's early morning meeting in Frick's office stole the show from the regular meetings of the National and American Leagues. They will meet in joint session tomorrow.

The National spent most of its time listening to Giles explain the ins and outs of the Saigh situation.

Veeck Needs Revenue

Over in the American, Saigh's old sparring partner, Bill Veeck, owner of the rival Browns, continued to hold out against the other seven clubs on television rights. He will not let any Brownie games be televised unless he is paid for it.

As a result of the TV squabble, the Browns have been threatened with loss of six profitable night games, two each at New York, Boston and Cleveland. The league schedule has been held up, pending settlement of the dispute. Both sides continued to be stubborn today but the league promised to set up some sort of schedule over the weekend.

Both leagues heard representatives of the new television committee take a stand against any network television of baseball into minor league territory.

Frank M. (Bruiser) Kinard, assistant football coach at Mississippi, joined the coaching staff in Jan., 1948, just 10 years after his final game for Ole Miss.

Allegany Beats LaSalle, 50-46; Bruce Edges Piedmont, 51-50

Campers Win 8th Straight In City Game

Explorers Eliminated From Title Race; Over 1,200 Witness Contest

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A fighting underdog LaSalle High quint gave Allegany's Campers the scare of their lives last night before bowing to Coach Walter L. Bowers' cagers, 50-46, in a hammer-and-tongs city clash on SS. Peter and Paul court.

An overflow crowd of approximately 1,200 fans jammed the Fayette Street gym to see the return engagement between the two arch city rivals and almost witnessed a repeat of LaSalle's upset over Allegany in their first meeting when the Explorers won 56-51.

Battle All The Way

The Alco quint, battling all the way, controlled the lead throughout most of the game but were rocked momentarily by a spirited surge by LaSalle in the opening moments of the third quarter which wiped out an eight-point Allegany halftime lead.

Trailing 24-16 at intermission LaSalle roared back into contention by dumping in four quick baskets in less than two minutes. Marty Mullaney started the drive for the Explorers with two pivot buckets. Hugh Nolan added a jump shot and Rickey Harris dropped in a set heave. The LaSalle salvo was broken only by Jimmy Hoffman's tip-in basket for AHS. Mullaney again hit on a pivot toss to knot the count at 26-26 with only two minutes gone. LaSalle had made five twin-pointers in only five shots during the rally.

Then showing the reason Allegany is rated tops in the area, the Campers once more asserted themselves. Following tie scores at 28-28 and 31-31 the Bowersmen broke through on a foul toss by Dave Herboldsheimer and a one-hander by Smokey Howe to go ahead to stay.

LaSalle Leads Briefly

LaSalle lead briefly in that hectic third quarter in which both teams tallied 17 points, going ahead 27-26 on Bill Dove's foul shot and again 30-28 on Bobby Christ's one-hander. After Dick Rank and Mullaney traded free throws Herboldshiemer scored on a pivot toss to knot the count for the last time at 31-all before Howe and Herboldsheimer combined to give Alco the lead for the last time.

Jimmy Hoffman, Herobldsheimer and Bob Kirtley added two-pointers for Allegany and the Campers were in front, 41-33, as the third quarter ended.

Allegany increased its margin to 10 points on Kirtley's toss as the fourth period opened and several times held that margin later in the canto before LaSalle once more began to whittle away.

Charley Kienhofer dropped home a one-hander and Harris converted twice at the foul line to cut Allegany's lead to 46-39 before Howe once more hit from outside.

Play Very Rugged

Kienhofer then banged home a goal and Barney Spearman, who converted 7 of 8 tries at the charity stripe, added two one-pointers to narrow the margin to 48-43 with 2:55 to play.

Marty Mullaney then blew two foul shots and Kirtley and Howe added fouls to pull the game out of reach for LaSalle.

Despite a miserable night shooting plus some very ragged play Allegany was able to win its eighth straight and 12th of the season in 14 games. LaSalle dropped its fifth decision in 15 starts and was eliminated from the three-cornered city title race.

Allegany hit only 18 of 72 shots and converted 14 of 31 fouls to tie Fort Hill for the leadership in the city scramble, each having 2-1 marks.

Outstanding for the Campers, who trailed 9-6 at the first quarter, was the play of co-captain Smokey Howe and subs Kirtley and Herboldsheimer. Howe paced the winners with 11 points.

Denny Shuck, Nolan, Harris and Mullaney played good floor games for LaSalle and Mullaney topped the Explorer scorers with 13 markers.

Allegany's Jayvees easily won the preliminary over the LaSalle Jayvees, 58-28. The lineups:

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan 30 —Playing without the services of two of their star players, Fort Hill High's Sentinels bowed to Martinsburg High's Bulldogs here tonight by a 46 to 42 score in a close, hard-fought game. Both George McGregor and Jim Farris failed to accompany the Fort Hill team as each was ill with the flu.

The victory for the Bulldogs avenged an early season setback at the hands of Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's quintet in Cumberland, 58-52 in overtime.

Martinsburg opened early and led 9-6 at the quarter but the visitors rallied to grab a 19-18 edge at the half before the Bulldogs once more edged in front 29-27 at the end of the third quarter in the see-saw struggle.

The game was tied four times in the final period, at 29, 30, 32 and 33. Blake's goal broke the final tie and put Martinsburg ahead to stay.

Despite a three-goal effort in the final three minutes by Dick Bittner Fort Hill was unable to close the gap and Coach John Corbourn's quintet racked up its sixth straight triumph and seventh of the season in 10 games.

Don Netoskie was the big noise for Martinsburg with three goals and 6-7 fouls for 12 points. John McVicker, sub for Farris, paced the Sentinels with 12 markers.

Harrison's 130 Leads Tourney

Harper Trails By Two Strokes In Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 30 (AP) — Another round of so-called "lucky" golf today gave E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., the lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament at the halfway mark with a 10-under-par total of 64-66—130.

Harrison finished late in the day to pass Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., whose arm hurt everytime he gripped his club. Harper, the 1950 PGA champ, had 66-66—132, two strokes behind.

Tommy Bolt, the fiery player from Maplewood, N. J., was three strokes back of the leader with 65-68—133.

Lloyd Mangrum, the pre-tourney favorite, improved his position today by shooting a three under par 67 for a total of 139.

Five golfers are in contending positions, four strokes back of Harrison with 134s. They are Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N. C.; Jim Ferrier, San Francisco; John Bulla, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and two comparative newcomers — Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., and Jerry Barber, Lacanda, Calif.

New York Approves DeMarco-Araujo Go

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (INS)—The New York State Athletic Commission approved today a Feb. 20 Madison Square Garden fight between lightweights Paddy De Marco and George Araujo but ordered De Marco to keep a postponed Boston commitment later.

The commission suspended featherweight Pat Marcune, however, after a hearing on a Massachusetts Boxing Commission request that both Marcune and De Marco be drydocked. The two fighters withdrew from Boston bouts because of injuries.

New York Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry said De Marco would be permitted to meet Araujo because the International Boxing Club had filed a contract for the fight before the Boston incident.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Middleweights Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn., and Marcel Brisebois of Montreal today were matched for a ten round main event at the Ridgewood Grove, Feb. 24.

Committee To Run St. Louis Cards Until Saigh Can Dispose Of Stock

Veeck Holding Out On Television Rights

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Fred Saigh formally agreed to step out of baseball today, outlining plans for a three-man committee to run his St. Louis Cardinals until he can dispose of the stock.

No deadline was set for sale of the stock, reportedly valued between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. The judge who sentenced Saigh to a 15-month prison term for income tax evasion gave him until May 4 to settle personal affairs before beginning sentence.

Saigh's statement, read after a 90-minute conference of the dapper little man with Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles, said he would name the committee of civic-minded St. Louisians by Feb. 22. His choices will be subject to approval by the commissioner and the National League.

In the meantime, Bill Walsingham, Saigh's vice president, will represent the Cardinals in league meetings while Saigh actually operates the club. Walsingham may very well be the committee's choice to continue as head of the club during its regime.

Groups Interested

A source high in baseball said Saigh's chances of selling were "very good." It was understood two or three different groups already have expressed interest. Walsingham, a nephew of the late Sam Breadon from whom Saigh and the late Bob Hannegan bought the Cards, is definitely interested in buying.

The proposed sale revived the old discussion of franchise moves. Although it would be virtually impossible to move the club in 1953, sale to any non-St. Louis group might result in a shift.

Saigh's early morning meeting in Frick's office stole the show from the regular meetings of the National and American Leagues. They will meet in joint session tomorrow.

The National spent most of its time listening to Giles explain the ins and outs of the Saigh situation.

Veeck Needs Revenue

Over in the American, Saigh's old sparring partner, Bill Veeck, owner of the rival Browns, continued to hold out against the other seven clubs on television rights. He will not let any Brownie games be televised unless he is paid for it.

As a result of the TV squabble, the Browns have been threatened with loss of six profitable night games, two each at New York, Boston and Cleveland. The league schedule has been held up, pending settlement of the dispute. Both sides continued to be stubborn today but the league promised to set up some sort of schedule over the weekend.

Both leagues heard representatives of the new television committee take a stand against any network television of baseball into minor league territory.

Frank M. (Bruiser) Kinard, assistant football coach at Mississippi, joined the coaching staff in Jan., 1948, just 10 years after his final game for Ole Miss.

Kozarek Given His Commission As Lieutenant

Lou Kozarek, of Portage, Pa., Eastern Intercollegiate 155-pound boxing champion of 1951, received a lieutenant's commission in the U. S. Air Force Reserve when he was graduated from Penn State College on Tuesday.

Dapper Dan Club's Fifth Annual Dinner Set For Sunday

Dr. H. C. Byrd Tops Notables At 5th Affair

Robinson, Rooney, Back Among Guests At K-C Home Dinner

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland and coach of Terp grid teams from 1912 through 1934, heads a list of sport notables coming here tomorrow for the fifth annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club to be held at the Knights of Columbus Home at 6 p. m.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, will act as toastmaster of the benefit affair from which the proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

A plaque will be presented to John Alderton, former Fort Hill High School athlete, who has been selected as the athlete who did the most to publicize Cumberland in 1952. Alderton was co-captain of the University of Maryland football team this year and excelled as defensive end for the Terps.

Player, Coach And Prexy

Dr. Byrd, principal speaker on tomorrow's program, owns a distinction that no other college president can claim. He is the only president to ever play for, then coach, then become president of his alma mater. He quarterbacked Terp teams from 1905 to 1907 and was a pitcher on the baseball teams as well as a sprinter on the track team. During his 25 years as grid mentor his teams won 114, lost 81 and played 15 ties.

The Dapper Dan Club has announced that the other sport notables coming here for the program include:

Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, and president of the national Dapper Dan organization.

Rooney Among Guests

Art Rooney, former Middle Atlantic League baseball star, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers football team of the N.F.L., Pittsburgh boxing promoter and owner of the Shamrock Racing Stable.

Joe Bach, former Notre Dame football star and present coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Eddie Robinson, first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics who was recently traded by the Chicago White Sox for Ferris Fain, American League batting champion.

Cliff Chambers, southpaw twirler of the St. Louis Cardinals, who formerly pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Little Mo" Coming

Dick "Little Mo" Modzelewski, of West Natrona, Pa., 235-pound tackle of the University of Maryland football team.

Tommy Mont, former Allegany High athlete, and now assistant football coach at the University of Maryland.

Bill McPeak, end of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

John Rokisky, former All-America gridder from Duquesne University.

Harry Dowda of the Washington Redskins football team.

Bob Price, radio sportscaster from Pittsburgh.

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing, 300-game winner in the major leagues and member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

In addition to Modzelewski, four other Maryland teammates of Alderton are expected to be here for the dinner. They are Charley Lattimer, Don Decker, Lynn Beightol and Tom McLuckie. Wes Abrams, Cumberland athlete, who starred as halfback at Washington and Lee University, is also listed among the invited guests.

Native Dancer Bumps Rail, Escapes Injury

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 30 (AP) — Native Dancer, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's prize 3-year-old, apparently escaped without a scratch from his runaway exercise ride at Santa Anita yesterday.

Trainer Bill Winfrey said the 1952 Horse of the Year showed no signs of ill effects today. Native Dancer stumbled to his knee after a workout, tossed his exercise boy, then took off. He bumped the infield railing, then trotted through the chute between the track and the paddock.

Chuck Davey Scoffs At Kid's Prediction

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (INS) —Undefeated Chuck Davey scoffed today at welterweight champion Kid Gavilan's prediction that he would knock out the southpaw challenger in the seventh or eighth round of their title bout Feb. 11 at Chicago Stadium.

Davey, who is training at the plush Tam O'Shanter Club, recalled that three other boxing stalwarts succumbed to his ring skill after predicting they would K. O. him.

Davey promised that he would be ready "for the best that Gavilan can throw at me," and added:

"I'll save my prediction for the night of Feb. 11th."

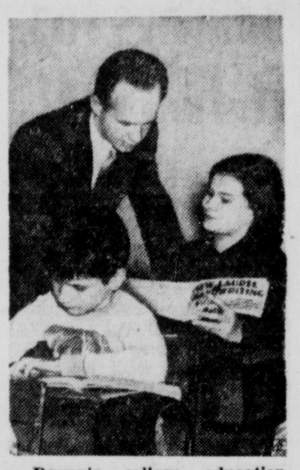
Unbeaten Chuck Davey Hits Fistic Heights

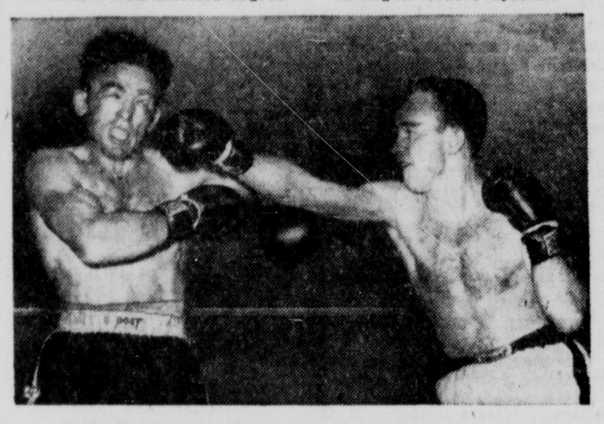
Chuck Davey, the southpaw welterweight, started his boxing career at Michigan State College at the age of 17.

After a hitch in the Air Corps and four different NCAA titles, Davey was graduated with a Bachelors and Masters degree.



Davey's college education enabled him to become a teacher as shown above in the Michigan school system.

The wavy-haired boxer recently married Patricia Abell, a nurse he met in a hospital while being patched up after a fight.



Davey's style has confused and defeated many capable performers such as Rocky Graziano, Ike Williams, Chico Vejar and Fitzy Pruden. Here Chuck throws a right against Carmen Basilio. Davey meets the champion, Kid Gavilan, for the welterweight crown on Feb. 11 in Chicago.

Seton Hall Bolstered With Ring's Return

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 30 (INS)—Seton Hall, undefeated top-ranking college basketball team in the nation, was bolstered today by the return to action of Arnold Ring, one of two stars who were scholastically ineligible during the first semester.

Although the other 1951-52 cage star, Jim Ahearn, also was declared eligible, but he decided to give up basketball to continue concentration on his studies.

Ring, a six-foot, three-inch re-round ace, is expected to see action tomorrow night when the Pirates seek their 21st consecutive victory.

AS YOU WERE

(This is the 62nd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Here is the first football player from this area ever to receive All-America mention. It was in 1919 that he earned "honorable mention" on the All-America picked by Walter Eckersall, former University of Chicago gridiron great, referee and football authority, for the Chicago Tribune.

This player, a native of Keyser, went from Keyser Prep, where he played halfback and captained teams for two seasons under Coach Bushrod "Jack" Grimes, to West Virginia University in 1916. He played a halfback position in his first year with the Mountaineers and in his junior and senior years he was an end. He spent 1918 in military service. It was during this year that football was suspended at W.V.U. and numerous other colleges because of the influenza epidemic that swept the country. In 1917 and 1919 he earned varsity football letters.

It was in his senior year that he gained All-America honorable mention. That was one of West Virginia's greatest teams, captained by Ira Rodgers, the sensational back, who was selected by Walter Camp as fullback and captain of his All-America eleven. The Mountaineers won eight and lost two and scored 326 points in 10 games which is still a W. V. U. record. Rodgers led the nation in scoring with 147 points. Center Russ Bailey made Camp's second team.

Other members of that 1919 squad included Joe Harrick, Frank Ice, Homer Martin, Joseph Setron, Widdy Neale, brother of Earle (Greasy) Neale, George Hill, Clay B. Hite and Paul "Biz" Dawson. Among the most prized wins were those scored over Princeton, Rutgers, W. & J., led by the immortal tackle, Wilbur "Fats" Henry, and Maryland. One of the defeats came at the hands of Centre College's "Praying Colonels," who then were skyrocketing to prominence on the play of All-Americans "Bo" McMillen, Red Weaver and "Red" Roberts.

During the three years this player was at West Virginia the grid teams were coached by Mont "Tubby" McIntire, who is now chairman of the West Virginia Racing Commission.

In 1923, the athlete pictured here coached the gridders of Allegany County High School on Greene Street. The local schoolboy eleven won seven and lost two that season.

He's been in business here for many years. What's his name?

Mills, proprietor of the Dingle Drug Store on Greene Street for the past 27 years. He was employed at the S. & D. Pharmacy, Baltimore street, for five years before going into business for himself.

Walter Eckersall, who selected Mills, officiated in games played by West Virginia, as did the famous "Tiny" Maxwell.

Dapper Dan Club's Fifth Annual Dinner Set For Sunday

Dr. H. C. Byrd Tops Notables At 5th Affair

Robinson, Rooney, Back Among Guests At K-C Home Dinner

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland and coach of Terp grid teams from 1912 through 1934, heads a list of sport notables coming here tomorrow for the fifth annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club to be held at the Knights of Columbus Home at 6 p. m.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, will act as toastmaster of the benefit affair from which the proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

A plaque will be presented to John Alderton, former Fort Hill High School athlete, who has been selected as the athlete who did the most to publicize Cumberland in 1952. Alderton was co-captain of the University of Maryland football team this year and excelled as defensive end for the Terps.

Player, Coach And Prexy

Dr. Byrd, principal speaker on tomorrow's program, owns a distinction that no other college president can claim. He is the only president to ever play for, then coach, then become president of his alma mater. He quarterbacked Terp teams from 1905 to 1907 and was a pitcher on the baseball teams as well as a sprinter on the track team. During his 25 years as grid mentor his teams won 114, lost 81 and played 15 ties.

The Dapper Dan Club has announced that the other sport notables coming here for the program include:

Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, and president of the national Dapper Dan organization.

Rooney Among Guests

Art Rooney, former Middle Atlantic League baseball star, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers football team of the N.F.L., Pittsburgh boxing promoter and owner of the Shamrock Racing Stable.

Joe Bach, former Notre Dame football star and present coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Eddie Robinson, first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics who was recently traded by the Chicago White Sox for Ferris Fain, American League batting champion.

Cliff Chambers, southpaw twirler of the St. Louis Cardinals, who formerly pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Little Mo" Coming

Dick "Little Mo" Modzelewski, of West Natrona, Pa., 235-pound tackle of the University of Maryland football team.

Tommy Mont, former Allegany High athlete, and now assistant football coach at the University of Maryland.

John Rokisky, former All-America gridder from Duquesne University.

Harry Dowda of the Washington Redskins football team.

Bob Price, radio sportscaster from Pittsburgh.

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing, 300-game winner in the major leagues and member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

In addition to Modzelewski, four other Maryland teammates of Alderton are expected to be here for the dinner. They are Charley Lattimer, Don Decker, Lynn Beightol and Tom McLuckie. Wes Abrams, Cumberland athlete, who starred as halfback at Washington and Lee University, is also listed among the invited guests.

Germans To Play Afternoon Game

Duquesne Captains Here At 2:30 P. M.

Cumberland's Old Germans pro basketball team will play its first afternoon contest of the current season here tomorrow when they host a team of former Duquesne University captains in a 2:30 p. m. engagement at SS. Peter and Paul court.

The local quintet will be striving for victory No. 8 in nine games and No. 7 in a row in the Sunday contest.

Bob Pence, player-coach of the Germans, is pacing the locals in scoring at the end of eight games with 120 points, an average of 15 per contest. Jimmy Clevenger has high average of 16.7 points per game in seven tilts to run second in overall scoring to Pence with 117 markers.

The visiting aggregation, composed of players who at one time or another captained Duquesne University quints, is coached by Moe Becker, former All-America who is well known in this area, having played with the local quint during the war years and with Altoona in the now-defunct All-American League.

Tickets for the game can be obtained at Wilson Hardware, Truitt's Drug Store and Sports Shoppe. Tickets for last week's cancelled game with the Philadelphia Giants also will be honored in tomorrow's contest.

The preliminary affair will pit Sykes' Music Shop and Fort Hill Hi-Y teams of the Rec League at 1:15 p. m. Team's scoring records:

Chuck Davey Scoffs At Kid's Prediction

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (INS) —Undefeated Chuck Davey scoffed today at welterweight champion Kid Gavilan's prediction that he would knock out the southpaw challenger in the seventh or eighth round of their title bout Feb. 11 at Chicago Stadium.

Davey, who is training at the plush Tam O'Shanter Club, recalled that three other boxing stalwarts succumbed to his ring skill after predicting they would K. O. him.

Davey promised that he would be ready "for the best that Gavilan can throw at me," and added:

"I'll save my prediction for the night of Feb. 11th."

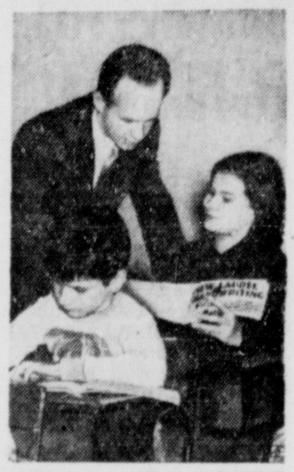
Unbeaten Chuck Davey Hits Fistic Heights

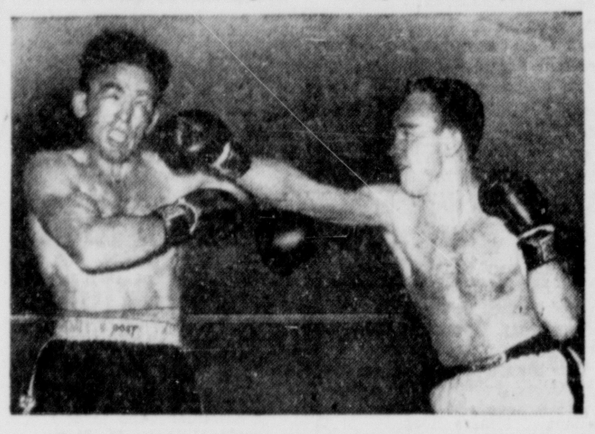
Chuck Davey, the southpaw welterweight, started his boxing career at Michigan State College at the age of 17.

After a hitch in the Air Corps and four different NCAA titles, Davey was graduated with a Bachelors and Masters degree.



Davey's college education enabled him to become a teacher as shown above in the Michigan school system.

The wavy-haired boxer recently married Patricia Abell, a nurse he met in a hospital while being patched up after a fight.



Davey's style has confused and defeated many capable performers such as Rocky Graziano, Ike Williams, Chico Vejar and Fitzy Pruden. Here Chuck throws a right against Carmen Basilio. Davey meets the champion, Kid Gavilan, for the welterweight crown on Feb. 11 in Chicago.

Seton Hall Bolstered With Ring's Return

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 30 (INS)—Seton Hall, undefeated top-ranking college basketball team in the nation, was bolstered today by the return to action of Arnold Ring, one of two stars who were scholastically ineligible during the first semester.

Although the other 1951-52 cage star, Jim Ahearn, also was declared eligible, but he decided to give up basketball to continue concentration on his studies.

Ring, a six-foot, three-inch reround ace, is expected to see action tomorrow night when the Pirates seek their 21st consecutive victory.

As You Were

(This is the 62nd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Here is the first football player from this area ever to receive All-America mention. It was in 1919 that he earned "honorable mention" on the All-America picked by Walter Eckersall, former University of Chicago gridiron great, referee and football authority, for the Chicago Tribune.

This player, a native of Keyser, went from Keyser Prep, where he played halfback and captained teams for two seasons under Coach Bushrod "Jack" Grimes, to West Virginia University in 1916. He played a halfback position in his first year with the Mountaineers and in his junior and senior years he was an end. He spent 1918 in military service. It was during this year that football was suspended at W.V.U. and numerous other colleges because of the influenza epidemic that swept the country. In 1917 and 1919 he earned varsity football letters.

It was in his senior year that he gained All-America honorable mention. That was one of West Virginia's greatest teams, captained by Ira Rodgers, the sensational back, who was selected by Walter Camp as fullback and captain of his All-America eleven. The Mountaineers won eight and lost two and scored 326 points in 10 games which is still a W. V. U. record. Rodgers led the nation in scoring with 147 points. Center Russ Bailey made Camp's second team.

Other members of that 1919 squad included Joe Harrick, Frank Ice, Homer Martin, Joseph Setron, Widdy Neale, brother of Earle (Greasy) Neale, George Hill, Clay B. Hite and Paul "Biz" Dawson. Among the most prized wins were those scored over Princeton, Rutgers, W. & J., led by the immortal tackle, Wilbur "Fats" Henry, and Maryland. One of the defeats came at the hands of Centre College's "Praying Colonels," who then were skyrocketing to prominence on the play of All-Americans "Bo" McMillen, Red Weaver and "Red" Roberts.

During the three years this player was at West Virginia the grid teams were coached by Mont "Tubby" McIntire, who is now chairman of the West Virginia Racing Commission.

In 1923, the athlete pictured here coached the gridders of Allegany County High School on Greene Street. The local schoolboy eleven won seven and lost two that season.

He's been in business here for many years. What's his name?

You're looking at Fred W. "Ike" Mills, proprietor of the Dingle Drug Store on Greene Street for the past 27 years. He was employed at the S. & D. Pharmacy, Baltimore street, for five years before going into business for himself. Walter Eckersall, who selected Mills, officiated in games played by West Virginia, as did the famous "Tiny" Maxwell.

Potomac State Hosts Battlers At Keyser Gym

A-B Is Top Contender For Conference Crown

Alderson-Broaddus College of Phillippi, featuring Jack Greynolds and Carl Hartman, two of the top scorers in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference, invades Keyser tonight to play Potomac State.

The Battlers have won 13 out of 16 games and are right at the top of the WVIC race with a 9-2 record. Potomac has won only four of 13 games and owns a 1-5 record in the conference.

Wesleyan halted A-B's 7-game winning streak Tuesday night, 78-71, in a game that saw Hartman, former Ridgeley High ace, scored 30 points while Greynolds, his running mate, had 18. Hartman meshed 10 of 11 free throws. He missed his 7th try after a record-breaking run of 34 consecutive free throws, a new record for the conference.

Tonight's game is set for 8 o'clock. Bill Hahn and Clifton Van Roby will officiate.

Frostburg State Teachers College plays Westinghouse Tech in Pittsburgh tonight.

In scholastic contests, Salisbury, Pa., High plays Carver at SS. Peter and Paul gym, Sanders High of Moorefield plays at Howard High, Piedmont, and the West Virginia School for the Deaf entertains the Kendall Green School for the Deaf of Washington on the Romney court.

Dr. Ross Linger Talks To Keyser Kiwanis Club

KEYSER — Dr. Ross Linger, Moorefield, superintendent of the Moorefield Methodist District, addressed the Kiwanians at the weekly dinner-meeting held Wednesday in the First Methodist Church.

During his talk he made many references to international and national matters as well as matters close to all—our home cities and homes. He said that half of the people of the world can neither read nor write, consequently they know nothing of vision and the word perish unless spoken of by other persons. He said also that the world is facing grave peril because some, including the Communists, have no vision and they are aiming at destruction.

In speaking of people generally, he said they must have the vision or shall perish not only physically, but mentally and spiritually. In referring to the Communistic policy or plan there is no spiritual vision at all; the people do not have freedom; and do not have liberty and freedom that we have and probably do not understand about vision and the word perish.

He spoke of a bridge builder who constructed a work over a small stream that some persons may have thought was not needed. The engineer answered that he had built the bridge for the children of today and tomorrow to pass over, and he added that we should all be building and planning for the tomorrow as a safeguard for the future for all of us, including those who will follow.

Visitors at the meeting were E. Clay Milby, Vandost, Ga., evangelist singer appearing at revival services at the First Methodist Church; Calvin Kimble, Martinsburg Kiwanian; and three officers of the local Circle K. Club at Potomac State College; Edward Gobel, president; Roudy Totten, vice-president, and Paul Taylor, secretary.

Dr. Ross Linger Talks To Keyser Kiwanis Club

KEYSER — Dr. Ross Linger, Moorefield, superintendent of the Moorefield Methodist District, addressed the Kiwanians at the weekly dinner-meeting held Wednesday in the First Methodist Church.

During his talk he made many references to international and national matters as well as matters close to all—our home cities and homes. He said that half of the people of the world can neither read nor write, consequently they know nothing of vision and the word perish unless spoken of by other persons. He said also that the world is facing grave peril because some, including the Communists, have no vision and they are aiming at destruction.

In speaking of people generally, he said they must have the vision or shall perish not only physically, but mentally and spiritually. In referring to the Communistic policy or plan there is no spiritual vision at all; the people do not have freedom; and do not have liberty and freedom that we have and probably do not understand about vision and the word perish.

He spoke of a bridge builder who constructed a work over a small stream that some persons may have thought was not needed. The engineer answered that he had built the bridge for the children of today and tomorrow to pass over, and he added that we should all be building and planning for the tomorrow as a safeguard for the future for all of us, including those who will follow.

Visitors at the meeting were E. Clay Milby, Vandost, Ga., evangelist singer appearing at revival services at the First Methodist Church; Calvin Kimble, Martinsburg Kiwanian; and three officers of the local Circle K. Club at Potomac State College; Edward Gobel, president; Roudy Totten, vice-president, and Paul Taylor, secretary.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(INS)—Elaine Stewart, MGM's answer to Marilyn Monroe, gets the only girl's role in "Take The High Ground" with Richard Widmark, Karl Malden and 30,000 GIs at Ft. Bliss! Dore Schary personally selected Elaine for his MGM production of the year.

You can bet no time will be lost building Elaine up as a sex attraction. Her career, in fact, is starting a great deal as Marilyn's did.

Elaine had just a few scenes in "The Bad And The Beautiful," but she whammed them over much in the same style Marilyn did with her bit in "Asphalt Jungle."

Before coming to MGM, Elaine was a Conover model and TV actress in New York.

Tried to reach Lana Turner long distance at Aspen, Colorado, but she and Lex Barker were out skiing.

Lana is going to Europe soon—this I get definite—and there is talk she may do "Nina" abroad, with Ricardo Montalban and Farley Granger as her male leads.

Speaking of Farl, his new date in Hollywood is Dawn Addams, at least they were holding hands at the Players Ring Theater.

A man whose name I can't mention, and he dosen't belong to 20th, telephoned me to say he has seen a rough cut of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Said my friend over the long distance phone, "this is it—the greatest picture I've seen in years and years! Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell together are the most potent combination to hit the screen, and wait until you see Tommy Noonan. He's going to be a new star."

Well, this is one picture I've got to see as soon as I get home. Are you listening Darryl Zanuck?

—o—

Pre-casting talk that Imogene Coca might play Fannie Brice in "Fabulous Fannie" was jumping the gun. First of all, Fannie's children haven't yet even decided if they'll allow the story to be made on the screen. "We don't even know if the studios have seen advance issues of the book," says Fannie's daughter, Mrs. Ray Stark. "We haven't had copies to give them."

One thing for sure, when and if the picture is made it will be with the full approval of Fannie's children and that approval extends to producer, director, screenplay and of course, the star.

"We think that Imogene Coca is a fine performer," Billy Brice says, "but we do not think of her as the actress to play mother when and if a film is made."

—o—

Snapshots of Hollywood and New York collected at random:

Good to see Lillian Gish at the cocktail party Earl Blackwell gave for Margaret Ettinger and me. Lillian stayed on for the dinner which followed at the Pen and Pencil and was glad to see the old friends she hadn't met in the six months she has been in Europe.

At the same party, Bette Davis, looking very chic in a close fitting hat, with her groom Gary Merrill, and Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob who just flew in from Florida.

Bert was beaming over the notices and the crowds attending Bette's movie "The Star" which he produced.

Yul Brynner, who came after his show, tells me he'll be in Hollywood April 4th and that Albert Drake will substitute for him in "The King And I" through the summer.

Late, Nancy Carroll came in on the arm of her first husband, Jack Kirkland. They have four grandchildren, a good strong bond between even ex-husband and wife. Nancy admitted there's a "new" romance in her life. Maybe Jack? But she says not.

Reginald Gardiner, who is as attentive to Nadia as when they were first married, telephoned her from the party because she was baby sitting and he wanted her to get someone to stay with their young son.

Gertrude Niesen, who was giving a big party for Sophie Tucker Thursday night, had to call it off—dat ol' debbil flu.

That's all today. See you Monday.

First in the new series of figure-contouring exercises is one to improve the bosom line.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Today begins the spring-summer figure contouring program that was promised to you who want to make the most of yourselves. Self-improvement is a continuous pursuit. As all beauties know, this is one season when most figures need some reshaping.

Whether your figure needs increasing or decreasing, or a combination of the two, our new series of exercises starting today will prove to be easier, pleasanter to do and more effective than any other you have ever tried.

Your Exercise Partner

One innovation of this program is a "silent" exercise partner—a leather strap. Until you use an exercise strap, you will never believe how much it helps in overcoming the psychological handicap of working out in solitary tedium. It provides an important physical advantage, too, by giving you something tangible to work with and against, like a boxer's sparing partner. Results are surer and faster. Any strap will do. Fasten a couple of flexible leather belts together and you have an excellent one.

Our program starts with an answer to a major compiaint—that of the lass whose bust is too small in relation to her hips and waist and also those who wish to firm and mold their bosoms to attain more youthful lines.

Bust Recontouring

Let's get on with the routine: Stand tall with feet together. Take your strap in both hands with a firm grip. Hold it high above your head, hands slightly more than shoulder width apart. Now pull hard to keep the strap taught. By bending your elbows very gradually, slowly pull the strap down to touch your chest. Take care to keep the strap taut at all times and pull outward as well as downward on it. Always work as though you were resisting a strong upward push from another person. Maximum results lie in maximum resistance. At the start, ten workouts are enough. Be sure to relax your muscles between each sequence.

If only firming is your goal, increase by two times each day until you reach thirty. For development, increase until you reach fifty per day. To prevent strain, it is wise to do half in the morning and the rest later in the day.

Be patient! Bust recontouring is a matter of slow improvement. But start now and by swim-suit season your results will be your great reward!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Down in the Valley...

Living today really is on the "big" scale . . . with no-place for part-way or half-way anything. Just look around. To be good (or right, or acceptable) it's gotta' be big or bigger . . . more or most. Even basketball is getting "high" minded. A few years back if a team scored 100 points it was a sports sensation. Well, to show you how times do change . . . just the other day, one guy (the celebrated "Bevo") dropped in 116 all by his lonesome. Even the chickens are outdoing themselves. A couple of minutes ago we saw a huge egg (chicken variety) that would have done justice to a king-sized goose. Big? You betcha! 'Believe it or not, all this prattle has its point. We're aimin' to say this: if it's the biggest, bestest, most scrumptious meal in town you want (and likewise for drinks, too) then drop Down In the Valley, pronto! The only small thing about our service is the price!

Down in the Valley...

Living today really is on the "big" scale . . . with no-place for part-way or half-way anything. Just look around. To be good (or right, or acceptable) it's gotta' be big or bigger . . . more or most. Even basketball is getting "high" minded. A few years back if a team scored 100 points it was a sports sensation. Well, to show you how times do change . . . just the other day, one guy (the celebrated "Bevo") dropped in 116 all by his lonesome. Even the chickens are outdoing themselves. A couple of minutes ago we saw a huge egg (chicken variety) that would have done justice to a king-sized goose. Big? You betcha! 'Believe it or not, all this prattle has its point. We're aimin' to say this: if it's the biggest, bestest, most scrumptious meal in town you want (and likewise for drinks, too) then drop Down In the Valley, pronto! The only small thing about our service is the price!

How To Dress A Song

"The Hit Parade" is not entirely my dish of tea, but I have difficulty tearing my eyes away from it for one reason. How many different settings, I keep asking myself, can you devise for "Glow Worm?" I have seen at least six "Glow Worms" and I'm awed by the amount of ingenuity the producers have demonstrated for digging up a new setting each week.

John Crosby

The task of devising backgrounds for popular songs isn't exclusive to "The Hit Parade," of course, but this show has problems all its own. It is restricted to the seven most popular songs of the week (plus a few Lucky Strike extras of old song hits) and songs have a nasty habit of staying on the list for weeks on end.

The song that stuck around longest was "If" ("If they made me a king" and so forth). "If" was on the list 19 weeks back in 1951 and the producers, Ted Fetter and Dan Lounsbery, almost went out of their minds dreaming up new angles every week. Some of them were: a young couple in a Paris garret (Fetter and Lounsbery have a weakness for Paris garrets), a songwriter composing a song in a tenement, a camping scene with the singer gathering wood, a wife singing it to her husband who falls asleep, an Italian fisherman singing it to his wife, a husband singing it to his sick wife in bed.

Besides being chained inexorably to the top seven hits, "The Hit Parade" has another self-imposed problem. The American Tobacco Company wants a show for the whole family and some popular song lyrics are simply too unabashedly passionate for family consumption—Fetter and Lounsbery mitigate the ardor of the lyricist by having the singers married. No passion is too tumultuous if the principals are married. However, it isn't always possible. Parting songs, of which there are a great many, can't have married folk involved because that would imply divorce for which the American Tobacco Company has a high corporate horror.

The most difficult song they had to cope with was "Harbor Lights." Fetter and Lounsbery were limited there to a harbor setting of some sort and the song hung on for months. The song was sung variously from dock, a house overlooking the sea, a crow's nest, a waterfront cafe, the wheelhouse of a ship in the rain, a widow's walk, the back of a Staten Island ferry, the terrace at a yacht club dance, the fan tail of a Navy ship at anchor in the South Pacific. Those were just a few of the dodges. At various other times, the "Hit Parade" singers—Snooky Lanson, Dorothy Collins and Eileen Wilson (who has been replaced by June Valli) were on a beached boat, an airplane flying over a harbor, a small island with a lighthouse in the background, a 17th Century sailing vessel, a beach with a shipwrecked vessel off shore and in Holland with windmills.

Both Fetter and Lounsbery have been in the theater for years and they are gifted with total recall. They've never forgotten a song setting they have either staged or even seen and they steal ideas from everywhere — the stage, the movies, books, magazines, and each other. At the rate of nine different production numbers a week, they have had to turn out at least 1,000 different productions. It isn't easy. "Hit Parade" production is about the best there is with a polish and smoothness and inventiveness which is the envy of other shows.

Their treatments take tremendous preparation and are very expensive. In order to have time, the producers and their assistant producer and writer, Bill Nichols, have to guess in advance which songs will land on the list. They're not always right. To everyone's astonishment "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" was high on the list one week and nowhere in sight the next, which is very unusual. When that happens, they have to think up new treatments for new songs in a hurry. Occasionally, an idea that sounds good on paper doesn't work out at all in practice and has to be abandoned.

Fetter and Lounsbery like to keep fairly close to the mood and tempo of new songs at least for the first few weeks. After a song has been around a long time, though, they kick it around a bit and may even kid it, a practice which makes composers very nervous. The song "Cold, Cold Heart," for example, got the Perils of Pauline treatment complete with buzz saw and railroad tracks.

In Memoriam

In memory of Lucille M. Hardman, who died Feb. 1st, 1952.

The night was dark, peaceful and calm,
she slipped away before the dawn.
Her pains were more than she could bear, God seen she needed his heavenly care.
Her home was strong, it was built on love and blessed with a daughter by the Lord up above.
He gave her a mate so faithful and strong, and all woven together made a beautiful home.
All these things and we wonder why, the time had come for her to die.
Let us remember, rejoice and pray, the Lord giveth, he taketh away.
Be thankful Husband and Child for the short span of years,
Do not grieve her passing with bitterness and tears,
When dusk stills upon you, kneal down and pray, and thank our Heavenly Father for taking her away.
Away from worries, corruption made by man, to dwell with Jesus in that far away land.
Her father and mother have gone before, and left behind them an open door.
Just put your faith in God, oh humble man, and you will join that angel in that far away land.

Composed by sister Marguerite

Sadly missed by Husband & Daughter, also family, sisters & brothers.

In Memoriam

In memory of Lucille M. Hardman, who died Feb. 1st, 1952.

The night was dark, peaceful and calm, she slipped away before the dawn.
Her pains were more than she could bear, God seen she needed his heavenly care.
Her home was strong, it was built on love and blessed with a daughter by the Lord up above.
He gave her a mate so faithful and strong, and all woven together made a beautiful home.
All these things and we wonder why, the time had come for her to die.
Let us remember, rejoice and pray, the Lord giveth, he taketh away.
Be thankful Husband and Child for the short span of years.
Do not grieve her passing with bitterness and tears,
When dusk stills upon you, kneal down and pray, and thank our Heavenly Father for taking her away.
Away from worries, corruption made by man, to dwell with Jesus in that far away land.
Her father and mother have gone before, and left behind them an open door.
Just put your faith in God, oh humble man, and you will join that angel in that far away land.

Composed by sister Marguerite

Stock Market Scores Its Fourth Straight Advance

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—The stock market registered its fourth straight advance today in the face of the conflicting trading trends that threatened repeatedly to swamp the effort.

The greatest drawback was irregularity in the railroads that eventually developed into a loss for the group as a whole.

Missouri Pacific preferred developed extreme weakness, without affecting the rest of the rail group, after details were disclosed on the reorganization plan proposed under the Mahaffie Act. It dropped 4⅜ at 50⅝.

Most major groups held up quite well, and the chemicals, which have been behind the market, came forward in a rally near the close. DuPont was a point of strength and gained 1⅝ at 100, touching a new high.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 40 cents and closed at $115.70. Volume came to a total of 1,760,000 shares.

20th Century-Fox was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 15⅝. It was followed by New York Central up ¼ at 25⅜, Pepsi-Cola, unchanged at 12, Studebaker up ¼ at 42⅛, and Canadian Pacific up ¼ at 32¼.

Stocks moving ahead included Standard Oil (NJ) up 1⅛ at 76⅛, Union Oil of California 6 at 40¼, Loew's ⅜ at 11¾, American Telephone ⅛ at 160¼, Kennecott Copper ⅝ at 79⅞, American Cyanamid 1 at 50⅝, Union Carbide 1 at 72½, American Hawaiian Steamship 2¼ at 56¼, U. Stock Market Scores Its Fourth Straight Advance

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—The stock market registered its fourth straight advance today in the face of the conflicting trading trends that threatened repeatedly to swamp the effort.

The greatest drawback was irregularity in the railroads that eventually developed into a loss for the group as a whole.

Missouri Pacific preferred developed extreme weakness, without affecting the rest of the rail group, after details were disclosed on the reorganization plan proposed under the Mahaffie Act. It dropped 4⅜ at 50⅝.

Most major groups held up quite well, and the chemicals, which have been behind the market, came forward in a rally near the close. DuPont was a point of strength and gained 1⅝ at 100, touching a new high.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 40 cents and closed at $115.70. Volume came to a total of 1,760,000 shares.

20th Century-Fox was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 15⅜. It was followed by New York Central up ¼ at 25⅜, Pepsi-Cola, unchanged at 12, Studebaker up ¼ at 42½, and Canadian Pacific up ¼ at 32¼.

Couple Quizzed In Murder Probe To Be Released

Will be Returned To Baltimore Today

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher last night announced that a Baltimore couple who were being held here for questioning in the Meister murder case will be released today.

Fletcher said neither the man nor his wife had been considered a suspect in the case. He declared they were questioned only because authorities believed they could add to available information on the case.

Although he did not say what information the couple were able to supply, Fletcher declared both had willingly talked to authorities.

Faces Traffic Charges

The man, who was being detained in County Jail last night, will be released to State Police today to answer traffic charges in the Baltimore area, Fletcher said. His wife, who also was detained, will be released with him.

Police brought the pair to Cumberland after the husband was picked up for questioning in Baltimore on Monday night. Another man who was interrogated with him was released. The woman was questioned Thursday, but Fletcher said there are no charges against her. Her husband is a former Cumberlander who has been residing in Baltimore.

No other developments were reported in the case, which has baffled investigators since the bludgeoned body of Mrs. Odessa Meister was found on McNamee's Hill January 16.

Mystery Surrounds Case

Much of the mystery in the case centers on just where Mrs. Meister went on the afternoon of December 20, when her family and known friends last saw her alive.

The Columbia Street woman supposedly caught the 2 p. m. bus to her job at the Celanese plant that day, but nobody seems sure where she got off, or where she went after she left the bus.

Scores of people have been questioned, but police have said they have not been able to piece together a conclusive story of Mrs. Meister's whereabouts on that afternoon.

Surprise Visit

Sister Madeline Revisits Home Town After 20 Years

Sister Madeline, a native of this city and a daughter of John H. Lindner, Shade's Lane, received her first glimpse of the Queen City of the Alleghenies in 20 years last night.

Sister Madeline arrived here by B. and O. train, accompanied by Sister Elizabeth Ann, to attend a Music Workshop for Catholic Schools in Western Maryland slated today in St. Patrick's School. Both are stationed at St. Domenic's School, Baltimore.

They spent the night at Sacred Heart Hospital, which is operated by the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Also participating in the music workshop from out of town are Sister Bond Gratia, of the Franciscan Order, and Sister Cecelia Ann, of the Notre Dame Order, who was teaching music at St. Patrick's School here when Sister Madeline was a student.

Sister Madeline entered the Sisters of Charity in 1933 after graduating from Girls Central High School here.

She is one of five Lindner sisters who entered the order of the Sisters of Charity.

City Wins Praise For Well Rounded Recreation Plan

Cumberland is ahead of most cities of its size in developing a well rounded recreational program, J. W. Faust, an official of the National Recreation Association reported at a recent visit here.

Faust, of East Orange, N. J., district representative of the national organization, conferred here last week with the City Recreation Board and Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

He approved present policies of the department and urged that the program be broadened to include all age groups and interests.

Commended was the department's plans to establish a broader cultural program, including dramatics, art, music and crafts for adults.

Faust suggested that the department consider the formation of bands or orchestras from adults who had music training in schools but have had no opportunity to use their talents since graduation.

He praised the cooperation of the Rec Department with the schools in the joint use of playgrounds and urged still closer ties with the school system in the use of auditoriums and other school facilities.

Few cities, he added, have enough money to provide duplicate recreational facilities for both school and city use, since tax money must be used to provide both.

Pence reported that school officials have been cooperating well in the efforts of the department to expand its program.

Remodeling Is Set

Schine's Strand Theater secured a building permit from the Building Engineer for lobby remodeling to cost about $1,000. The project will include the installation of a new candy stand and related work.

Paint Job Gives Court House Third Floor "New Look"

The third floor at the Court House, which has appeared exceptionally drab in recent years, now has a "new look" as painters have finished the job of painting the walls yellow and the ceilings white.

Paint has been applied in all rooms on the third floor as well as in the hallway. Brightened by the latest project are the offices of the County Agent, Home Demonstration Agent, District Forester and the Board of License Commissioners.

Youth Admits 5 Burglaries In 2 Months

Faces Trial For Parole Violation

City detectives last night announced that five recent burglaries and illegal entries have been cleared with the arrest of a 15-year-old South Cumberland boy.

The boy, who had been on parole after taking part in another series of minor crimes last summer, was arrested at 6:45 p. m. Thursday.

He is to be taken to Juvenile Court today on a charge of violating his parole.

Detective Lt. James E. Van and Detective Roy C. Hawse said the youth signed a statement admitting these crimes:

Breaking and entering at Pennsylvania Avenue School at 7:30 p. m. January 21, when he smashed a window pane to get in, then bored holes in a library door and a desk drawer to steal about 20 cents in change.

Another entry at the school last November or December when he stole some .410 gauge shotgun shells, but go no money.

An entry January 13 at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Oldtown Road. The boy said he entered through a rear window, knocked the top off a metal coin container attached to a votive lamp stand, stole about 50 cents worth of the parishioners' offerings and threw away the box on his way home.

Theft of several new half-dollar pieces and a roll of nickels from the home of L. J. Butler, 1021 Rolling Mill Alley, on January 10. That crime was committed within two hours after the boy had reported to his parole officer, under terms of his probation.

An attempted burglary at the Acme Supermarket on Virginia Avenue on January 24, when the youth said he climbed through a coal chute at the rear of the building, tried to cut his way into the produce room with a knife, but failed and gave up.

Lt. Van said a footprint found at the scene of the St. Mary's burglar; helped bring a confession from the boy. Proportions of the print, he said, matched the boy's shoes exactly.

The boy has been held in the juvenile detention quarters at the new County Infirmary since his arrest.

City Requests Sketches Of Proposed Spans

Wills Creek Bridge Data Received Here

Preliminary engineering data on three bridges planned across Wills Creek have been forwarded to city officials by the J. E. Greiner Company.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has asked the firm to prepare artist's sketches of proposed designs to help the Council select the type of bridges desired.

Several months ago, the Mayor and Council asked the Greiner firm, designer of the Bay Bridge, to prepare preliminary plans for the spans at Baltimore, Market and Valley Streets, which must be replaced as the channel of the stream is improved during flood control work.

Will Decide Type

Mayor Eves said the blueprints forwarded by the firm include data on foundations, grades, and approaches.

The type of bridge will be decided by the Mayor and Council on the basis of appearance, cost and availability of materials. Prestressed concrete has won favorable comment among the officials.

Actual construction of the bridges is several years away, apparently, since the Corps of Engineers is to begin this summer the construction of the industrial dam across the Potomac River.

The dam will include foundations for a modern bridge to be built by Maryland and West Virginia to replace the obsolete Blue Bridge.

Present Wills Creek channel improvement from the Narrows to the City Junction Bridge is about 35 per cent complete and the contractor is expected to complete the paving job by next January.

Delay Possible

Availability of funds will determine whether other channel improvements could be undertaken at the same time as the Potomac River improvements.

At any event, city officials expect it to be several years before actual construction of the Wills Creek bridges get under way.

Abutments will be provided by the Corps of Engineers as the channel is improved, and torn down, with contracts for new spans let by the city.

Funds for the spans were provided in the city and county's $2,500,000 share of the $17,000,000 project.

Delegates Balk At See's Plan To Censure City

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30. (AP)—The House balked today at rushing ahead to admonish the Cumberland Mayor and City Council for what Del. See (R-Allegany) called "neglect of duties" in requiring signal devices at a railroad crossing.

Daniel Hill, 56, died after an accident Wednesday at the Virginia Avenue crossing of the Western Maryland Railway. Grover Harman, 19, who was in the truck hit by a train, is in critical condition.

See asked the House to adopt immediately a resolution asking the Cumberland Council to enforce an ordinance which requires warning signals at crossings in the city.

"The City Council has neglected to do it and it is incumbent upon the House to request them to do it," See said. "We are only asking the City Council to carry out their responsibilities."

However, several delegates protested such action probably was outside the province of the House and particularly without giving the Mayor and Council a chance to be heard.

See, after considerable debate, agreed to have the resolution sent to the Judiciary Committee for consideration.

Before doing so, See had cried "What do we want to do, wait until somebody else is killed?"

A colleague of See, Del. Kelly, was among those to oppose immediate adoption. "I hesitate to condemn the officials of my city until I know the facts," he said.

One delegate suggested See's motive might have been political.

"The mayor is a Republican and so am I," retorted the Allegany delegate.

Farewell Gift Presented

As a token of esteem the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army last night presented to Major and Mrs. Elmer Wall a cash gift of $100. Major Wall, who has been commanding officer of the Salvation Army here for the last six and a half years, and Mrs. Wall, have been transferred to Colmar Manor in Prince Georges County. The transfer is effective Wednesday. In the picture above, Lewis J. Ort, Advisory Board chairman, is shown, center, as he presented a $100 bill to Major and Mrs. Wall.

Chest Elects Officers

Yesterday afternoon members of the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Community Chest elected Lynn C. Lashley as president of the organization for the coming year. He succeeds George L. Buchanan. Newly-elected officers shown in the picture above left to right are James Bishop, secretary, Lashley, and Edward L. Ewald, vice president. Absent when the picture was taken was Edgar D. Vandegrift, treasurer. Following the election other members of the Executive Board were named and reports given.

Muir To Head Bible Class

Sheriff Edward R. Muir was elected president of the Duke Memorial Bible Class at the annual election of officers last night in Central YMCA.

Other officers are Marcus Volk, first vice president; George Hensley, second vice president; J. Walter McKee, secretary; E. V. Oster, assistant secretary, and L. R. Firey, treasurer.

Howard Perrin is instructor and Russell Paupe, orchestra leader.

Committees will be named next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Central YMCA at an executive meeting of the new officers.

Elevator Buzzer On Blink; Down Is Up And Up Is Down

An odd situation which occurred in the Liberty Trust Building yesterday afternoon caused some confusion to patrons using one of the elevators.

Apparently something happened to the wiring system of the buzzers and when a passenger wanted to get from an upper floor of the six-story building to a lower floor he had to push the "up" button. The defect was expected to be coped with during the latter part of the afternoon.

Sgt. Glennon Given Promotion By Army

Sfc. Mary F. Glennon, who has been a recruiter of WAC's and WAF's in this city for about a year, was recently promoted to the rank of Master Sergeant.

Sgt. Glennon, who has an office in the Post Office building, received notification on Wednesday of her promotion from Major Robert Flynn, commanding officer of the Baltimore headquarters of the U. S. Army and Air Force.

Chest Elects Lashley As New President

Lynn C. Lashley was named president of the Cumberland Community Chest for the coming year during a meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday afternoon in the Chest Office.

Lashley succeeds George L. Buchanan, who was named a member of the executive committee. Elected to the office of vice president was Edward L. Ewald, who succeeds Lashley.

Edgar D. Vandegrift was named as treasurer of the Chest and succeeds Mrs. Gerard Everstine, while James W. Bishop was re-elected as secretary.

Other members of the executive committee besides the four officers and Buchanan are William H. Buchholtz, Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, Henry C. Swearingen and Chester T. Williams.

On Thursday night at the organization's 26th annual meeting in Central YMCA, the following directors were elected; Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, Robert W. Brown, William B. Ludman and Chester T. Williams.

During yesterday afternoon's meeting various reports of the nine Red Feather agencies were studied and approved. The treasurer's December report of cash receipts and disbursements of the 1952-53 drive was given.

Receipts on the pledges for 1952-53 are $64,385.88 while a total of $14,711.17 in disbursements was shown. The balance of cash in the bank as of January 1, of this year is $49,674.71 and total receipts from the 1952-53 pledges up to January 1 of this year amount to $64,335.88 or 63 per cent of the goal.

Approved for payment last night was the balance of $4,206.40 which cleans up the commitment of the Cumberland Community Chest toward the USO quota for 1951-52.

The USO quota for 1951-52 was $9,560 based on a 100 per cent collection. Since the collection of funds amounted to 94 per cent of the pledges the amount due the USO was $8,986.40 and of this amount the Chest had paid $4,780.00.

With the payment of $4,206.40 the Chest is "closed out" with a balance of $715.20 which will be put into a reserve account.

Weather

Another pleasant January day went into the records yesterday as an official high of 52 was reported at the Constitution Park weather station. The low was 19 degrees and at 8 o'clock last night the temperature rested at 41 degrees. For today, the last day of January, the prediction is for cloudy and mild weather. Occasional rain is expected by afternoon.

The City Engineer's Office issued a permit this week to the Church of God to build a church edifice on lots 46 and 47 of Fifth Street.

The permit was issued to Rev. G. Charles Pannell, who said the 40 by 80 foot structure will have a concrete block foundation and brick walls. Cost was estimated at $25,000.

Rev. Mr. Pannell said plans call for immediate construction of the basement, with later phases to follow as funds are available.

A pocket prayer book, belonging to a former resident, which was found among some World War II souvenirs by a member of the Royal Air Force in England has been mailed back to Cumberland.

On Thursday Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Church, received the letter and book from Kenneth V. Law, who resides in Lancashire, England. The book had been presented to E. Dale Slavin by Rev. Walter Marion Michael, a former pastor of the Centre Street church.

Slavin reportedly has moved to Baltimore according to Rev. Amoss. The book had the following words on the inside of the front cover," In the hope that from its pages you may receive strength and courage for the days ahead and with the prayers for a safe return after the war."

Advisory Board And Major Wall Say Farewells

Transferred Officer Is Presented Gift

Taking the form of a farewell meeting for Major and Mrs. Elmer Wall, the annual session of the Salvation Army Advisory Board was held last night in Central YMCA.

Major Wall, who will leave Wednesday for his new assignment at Colmar Manor, Prince Georges County, reminisced concerning his more than six years of service in Cumberland, expressed appreciation to numerous individuals and groups, and promised to be Cumberland's "best goodwill ambassador."

Principal address of the meeting was delivered by Rev. Seth C. Morrow, pastor of First Presbyterian Church and a member of the Advisory Board. He dedicated his talk on "The Test of High Religion" to Major Wall, who has been commanding officer of the Salvation Army here, and Mrs. Wall.

The Walls, said Rev. Morrow, meet the test of high religion which he believes is based on three things, a personal allegiance to Christ on whom one can rely in any experience, an excellence whereby a person does more for others than they can possibly return, and life with the cross at the center.

Capt. Daniel Biggs Will Succeed Wall

Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, 33, will succeed Major Elmer Wall as commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Cumberland, according to Major Paul Thronburg, Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia division.

Capt. and Mrs. Biggs with their four children will come here Wednesday from Weirton, W. Va. A native of Winston-Salem, N. C., Capt. Biggs has been a Salvation Army officer for 10 or 12 years.

Rev. Morrow drew a contrast between high and low religion, the former positive, the latter negative. He quoted Martin Niemoller, the Lutheran minister who was imprisoned by the Nazis, as saying Christianity is not primarily a principle or plan of life but a personal allegiance to Christ, as he cited the tests of high religion.

Discussing excellence as a second test, he pointed out that the Golden Rule, which makes self the standard, is not the center of Christianity. High religion goes farther, he added, by which you do more for others than others can do for you.

The third test is that the cross must be the center of life. Rev. Morrow pointed to the cross as the perfect picture of God pouring out His love, and said that only if the cross is at the center can the puzzle of life be put together. The cross, which has caused more people to be attached to God than has anything else, shows how to make the best out of the worst, he added.

Before Rev. Morrow spoke, Major Paul Thronburg, Baltimore, divisional secretary of the Maryland and Northern West Virginia District, brought greetings from division headquarters and spoke highly of Major and Mrs. Wall.

Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Advisory Board, likewise spoke highly of Major and Mrs. Wall and presented them with a cash gift of $100 on behalf of the Advisory Board.

Ort, acting on behalf of Major Wall, presented past chairman plaques to Mayor Roy W. Eves and Henry W. Price. Both responded briefly.

New members of the Advisory Board, elected for three-year terms were presented with membership plaques. The new members are Samuel Kaplon, Russell Pancake, Woodward Pealer, Charles E. Patterson, Anthony Saeli, Harry G. Shupe and Harry Stegmaier.

Lynn C. Lashley, retiring treasurer, reported income in 1952 of $26,620.04 and expenditures of $25,557.54. He called particular attention to the increase in contributions for the Christmas fund over the past six years, with the figure six years ago only $1,500 while for Christmas of 1952 it amounted to $5,862.

Pooch Is "Jugged" After Stalling Downtown Traffic

By BERNARD E. SITTER
News Staff Writer

A nondescript little dog with a perpetual motion wag in his tail and a love for automobiles found himself in City Jail yesterday, in "protective custody."

It seems that the pooch, who didn't give his name, liked cars so much he couldn't stay out of their way. A motorist narrowly missed hitting him at Union and South George streets, stopped his car, got out and put the little mutt back on the curb.

Before the driver could start his car again, there was the dog, standing squarely in the middle of the street, his tail wagging furiously.

The process was repeated again and again by other drivers until one, exasperated, called on a policeman for help.

The kindhearted cop "arrested" the mutt, took him to jail, locked him up in a basement cell with some food, and made arrangements to turn him over to P. P. Ferrato, city humane officer.

When a policeman opened his cell door to feed him again, the pooch heard a cruiser car entering the police garage and made a dash for it. The jailbreak was foiled, however, and the "prisoner" went back to his cell quietly.

Officers said no charge would be filed against him.

He'll remain at the city dog pound until someone claims him. Someone, that is, who can keep him away from cars.

Scout Leaders Committee Outlines Plans For The Year

The first scheduled event of the leadership committee of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, this year will be the Cub Pow-Pow at Potomac State School in Keyser during the afternoon and evening of March 21.

During the day representatives of the Cub Pack throughout the council territory will attend classes on ceremonies, handicraft, administration, games and program planning.

David Nuzum will be in charge of the committee on physical arrangements; Ester Oster, training staff; and Robert Jeffries, exhibits and displays.

During the evening the Pow Pow will be concluded with a Blue and Gold banquet. A Scoutmaster Training Course will be held at Camp Potomac April 11-12 with Robert Zerefoss as general chairman for arrangements, McKee said.

Following the close of the camp next summer, a training course for Explorer advisers is being considered by the council. The next meeting of the training committee will be February 26, at 7:30 p. m. in Potomac State School and will be part of the Council's "Top Hand" meeting.

Couple Quizzed In Murder Probe To Be Released

Will be Returned To Baltimore Today

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher last night announced that a Baltimore couple who were being held here for questioning in the Meister murder case will be released today.

Fletcher said neither the man nor his wife had been considered a suspect in the case. He declared they were questioned only because authorities believed they could add to available information on the case.

Although he did not say what information the couple were able to supply, Fletcher declared both had willingly talked to authorities.

Faces Traffic Charges

The man, who was being detained in County Jail last night, will be released to State Police today to answer traffic charges in the Baltimore area, Fletcher said. His wife, who also was detained, will be released with him.

Police brought the pair to Cumberland after the husband was picked up for questioning in Baltimore on Monday night. Another man who was interrogated with him was released. The woman was questioned Thursday, but Fletcher said there are no charges against her. Her husband is a former Cumberlander who has been residing in Baltimore.

No other developments were reported in the case, which has baffled investigators since the bludgeoned body of Mrs. Odessa Meister was found on McNamee's Hill January 16.

Mystery Surrounds Case

Much of the mystery in the case centers on just where Mrs. Meister went on the afternoon of December 20, when her family and known friends last saw her alive.

The Columbia Street woman supposedly caught the 2 p. m. bus to her job at the Celanese plant that day, but nobody seems sure where she got off, or where she went after she left the bus.

Scores of people have been questioned, but police have said they have not been able to piece together a conclusive story of Mrs. Meister's whereabouts on that afternoon.

Surprise Visit

Sister Madeline (left), a native of this city, is seen being greeted at Queen City Station by her father, John H. Lindner, Shade's Lane. At right is Sister Elizabeth Ann, who accompanied Sister Madeline to a music workshop planned here today. This is the first time Sister Madeline has returned to Cumberland since she entered the order 20 years ago.

Sister Madeline Revisits Home Town After 20 Years

Sister Madeline, a native of this city and a daughter of John H. Lindner, Shade's Lane, received her first glimpse of the Queen City of the Alleghenies in 20 years last night.

Sister Madeline arrived here by B. and O. train, accompanied by Sister Elizabeth Ann, to attend a Music Workshop for Catholic Schools in Western Maryland slated today in St. Patrick's School. Both are stationed at St. Domenic's School, Baltimore.

They spent the night at Sacred Heart Hospital, which is operated by the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Also participating in the music workshop from out of town are Sister Bond Gratia, of the Franciscan Order, and Sister Cecelia Ann, of the Notre Dame Order, who was teaching music at St. Patrick's School here when Sister Madeline was a student.

Sister Madeline entered the Sisters of Charity in 1933 after graduating from Girls Central High School here.

She is one of five Lindner sisters who entered the order of the Sisters of Charity.

City Wins Praise For Well Rounded Recreation Plan

Cumberland is ahead of most cities of its size in developing a well rounded recreational program, J. W. Faust, an official of the National Recreation Association reported at a recent visit here.

Faust, of East Orange, N. J., district representative of the national organization, conferred here last week with the City Recreation Board and Robert E. Pence, city recreation director.

He approved present policies of the department and urged that the program be broadened to include all age groups and interests.

Commended was the department's plans to establish a broader cultural program, including dramatics, art, music and crafts for adults.

Faust suggested that the department consider the formation of bands or orchestras from adults who had music training in schools but have had no opportunity to use their talents since graduation.

He praised the cooperation of the Rec Department with the schools in the joint use of playgrounds and urged still closer ties with the school system in the use of auditoriums and other school facilities.

Few cities, he added, have enough money to provide duplicate recreational facilities for both school and city use, since tax money must be used to provide both.

Pence reported that school officials have been cooperating well in the efforts of the department to expand its program.

Youth Admits 5 Burglaries In 2 Months

Faces Trial For Parole Violation

City detectives last night announced that five recent burglaries and illegal entries have been cleared with the arrest of a 15-year-old South Cumberland boy.

The boy, who had been on parole after taking part in another series of minor crimes last summer, was arrested at 6:45 p. m. Thursday.

He is to be taken to Juvenile Court today on a charge of violating his parole.

Detective Lt. James E. Van and Detective Roy C. Hawse said the youth signed a statement admitting these crimes:

Breaking and entering at Pennsylvania Avenue School at 7:30 p. m. January 21, when he smashed a window pane to get in, then bored holes in a library door and a desk drawer to steal about 20 cents in change.

Another entry at the school last November or December when he stole some .410 gauge shotgun shells, but go no money.

An entry January 13 at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Oldtown Road. The boy said he entered through a rear window, knocked the top off a metal coin container attached to a votive lamp stand, stole about 50 cents worth of the parishioners' offerings and threw away the box on his way home.

Theft of several new half-dollar pieces and a roll of nickels from the home of L. J. Butler, 1021 Rolling Mill Alley, on January 10. That crime was committed within two hours after the boy had reported to his parole officer, under terms of his probation.

An attempted burglary at the Acme Supermarket on Virginia Avenue on January 24, when the youth said he climbed through a coal chute at the rear of the building, tried to cut his way into the produce room with a knife, but failed and gave up.

Lt. Van said a footprint found at the scene of the St. Mary's burglar; helped bring a confession from the boy. Proportions of the print, he said, matched the boy's shoes exactly.

The boy has been held in the juvenile detention quarters at the new County Infirmary since his arrest.

City Requests Sketches Of Proposed Spans

Wills Creek Bridge Data Received Here

Preliminary engineering data on three bridges planned across Wills Creek have been forwarded to city officials by the J. E. Greiner Company.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has asked the firm to prepare artist's sketches of proposed designs to help the Council select the type of bridges desired.

Several months ago, the Mayor and Council asked the Greiner firm, designer of the Bay Bridge, to prepare preliminary plans for the spans at Baltimore, Market and Valley Streets, which must be replaced as the channel of the stream is improved during flood control work.

Will Decide Type

Mayor Eves said the blueprints forwarded by the firm include data on foundations, grades, and approaches.

The type of bridge will be decided by the Mayor and Council on the basis of appearance, cost and availability of materials. Prestressed concrete has won favorable comment among the officials.

Actual construction of the bridges is several years away, apparently, since the Corps of Engineers is to begin this summer the construction of the industrial dam across the Potomac River.

The dam will include foundations for a modern bridge to be built by Maryland and West Virginia to replace the obsolete Blue Bridge.

Present Wills Creek channel improvement from the Narrows to the City Junction Bridge is about 35 per cent complete and the contractor is expected to complete the paving job by next January.

Delay Possible

Availability of funds will determine whether other channel improvements could be undertaken at the same time as the Potomac River improvements.

At any event, city officials expect it to be several years before actual construction of the Wills Creek bridges get under way.

Abutments will be provided by the Corps of Engineers as the channel is improved, and torn down, with contracts for new spans let by the city.

Funds for the spans were provided in the city and county's $2,500,000 share of the $17,000,000 project.

Delegates Balk At See's Plan To Censure City

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 30. (AP)—The House balked today at rushing ahead to admonish the Cumberland Mayor and City Council for what Del. See (R-Allegany) called "neglect of duties" in requiring signal devices at a railroad crossing.

Daniel Hill, 56, died after an accident Wednesday at the Virginia Avenue crossing of the Western Maryland Railway. Grover Harman, 19, who was in the truck hit by a train, is in critical condition.

See asked the House to adopt immediately a resolution asking the Cumberland Council to enforce an ordinance which requires warning signals at crossings in the city.

"The City Council has neglected to do it and it is incumbent upon the House to request them to do it," See said. "We are only asking the City Council to carry out their responsibilities."

However, several delegates protested such action probably was outside the province of the House and particularly without giving the Mayor and Council a chance to be heard.

See, after considerable debate, agreed to have the resolution sent to the Judiciary Committee for consideration.

Before doing so, See had cried "What do we want to do, wait until somebody else is killed?"

A colleague of See, Del. Kelly, was among those to oppose immediate adoption. "I hesitate to condemn the officials of my city until I know the facts," he said.

One delegate suggested See's motive might have been political.

"The mayor is a Republican and so am I," retorted the Allegany delegate.

Elevator Buzzer On Blink; Down Is Up And Up Is Down

An odd situation which occurred in the Liberty Trust Building yesterday afternoon caused some confusion to patrons using one of the elevators.

Edgar D. Vandegrift was named as treasurer of the Chest and succeeds Mrs. Gerard Everstine, while James W. Bishop was re-elected as secretary.

Other members of the executive committee besides the four officers and Buchanan are William H. Buchholtz, Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, Henry C. Swearingen and Chester T. Williams.

On Thursday night at the organization's 26th annual meeting in Central YMCA, the following directors were elected; Mrs. Arthur G. Fuller, Robert W. Brown, William B. Ludman and Chester T. Williams.

During yesterday afternoon's meeting various reports of the nine Red Feather agencies were studied and approved. The treasurer's December report of cash receipts and disbursements of the 1952-53 drive was given.

Receipts on the pledges for 1952-53 are $64,385.88 while a total of $14,711.17 in disbursements was shown. The balance of cash in the bank as of January 1, of this year is $49,674.71 and total receipts from the 1952-53 pledges up to January 1 of this year amount to $64,335.88 or 63 per cent of the goal.

Approved for payment last night was the balance of $4,206.40 which cleans up the commitment of the Cumberland Community Chest toward the USO quota for 1951-52.

The USO quota for 1951-52 was $9,560 based on a 100 per cent collection. Since the collection of funds amounted to 94 per cent of the pledges the amount due the USO was $8,986.40 and of this amount the Chest had paid $4,780.00.

With the payment of $4,206.40 the Chest is "closed out" with a balance of $715.20 which will be put into a reserve account.
